State Upholds Mayor's Bid, Special School Rate for City

FATE OF 10 STILL UNKNOWN—Miners are shown assembling near top of the potash mine near Moab, Utah, before rescue operations began Wednesday. Two of the men rescued reported five companions still alive underground but mine authorities were skeptical on the fate of 10 others. Rescue parties have found eight bodies of men killed in Tuesday's explosion. (AP Wirephoto)

Suspend Rescue Try Until Air Available

MOAB, Utah (AP)—Attempts to reach five reported survivors of a potash mine explosion were temporarily suspended today to establish a fresh air pocket at the base of a 2,700 foot mine shaft.

State Mine Commissioner Casper Nelson said work on the air base may take 24 hours, and during that time rescuers would not go into the tunnels.

One Body Brought Up

Nelson's announcement followed the finding of eight bodies Wednesday night, dimming the hope of tired, grimy rescue workers, who had pushed their search since the explosion Tuesday afternoon. One body was brought up today.

The blast trapped 25 men in Texas Gulf Sulphur Co.'s $35 million potash mine. Two were rescued Wednesday in good condition.

They said five of their companions were alive after the blast, barricaded behind debris about 2,100 feet into one of two tunnels extending laterallly and downward from the main shaft.

Fate of the 10 remaining miners was unknown.

Nelson blamed carbon monoxide for the miners' deaths.

Not Abandoning Hope

"We are not abandoning hope," Nelson said.

"We have been unsuccessful in attempts to reach the five men believed to be alive behind a barricade. . . We plan to go back to our original plan of establishing a fresh air base at the bottom of the shaft from which we can work . . . We should have followed this procedure 24 hours ago,'" he added.

During the night, Nelson said rescue crews succeeded in restoring the compresssed air line leading to the five barricaded miners.

"We're guessing it (the air) is going back to the five," he said. "However, rescuers instructed to tap on the line have not received any answering sounds."

Frank Tippie, head of Texas Gulf's potash division, said of the general rescue situation: "It

6 Members Resign From Saugerties Planning Board

The six-member Village of Saugerties Planning Board agreed to resign in toto Wednesday night because of the failure of the Village Board of Trustees to appoint Dr. Richard Messina to the County Planning Board. Dr. Messina had been the Planning Board's nominee for the appointment.

Both Dr. Messina, chairman of the Village Planning Board and vice chairman Nathan Aaron attended classes in community planning at Orange County Community College. They also visited the Planning Institute at Saratoga Springs, sponsored by the New York State Federation of Official Planning Organizations. The courses were largely attended at taxpayers' expense.

Resigning Members

Resigning members were Dr. Messina, Mr. Aaron, John Kaminski, Albert Gianotti, Mrs. Ruth Glunt and Mrs. Rita Gavigan.

In his letter of resignation, Dr. Messina noted the number of years already spent in an attempt to reorganize and reactivate the Planning Board. He said much progress had been made in the village, pointing out

Predict 430-520 Toll on Highways

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council has estimated that between 430 and 520 Americans may die in traffic accidents over the long Labor Day weekend.

The council also said Wednesday that 17,000 to 21,000 persons may suffer injuries disabling them beyond the day of the accident.

The three day holiday will begin at 6 p.m. Friday (local time) and end at midnight Monday. Last year's Labor Day weekend set a record for that holiday with 501 fatalities.

Urges Highland Air Teen Woes

Town of Lloyd Supervisor John J. Gaffney today called on residents of the Village of Highland and other town residents to appear at the Sept. 11 Town Board meeting to give their opinions on what was reported as a current problem among "irresponsible" teenagers and late-hour drunks in Highland.

Some Favor Curfew

His remarks came on the heels of a demand among some Highland residents that "something must be done" about teenagers roaming the streets late at night and causing disturbances and drunks coming into the village from neighboring Dutchess County to take advantage of a later closing hour at village bars. Some residents called for a village curfew similar to that adopted by the Village of Saugerties and which went into effect last Aug. 9 and which apparently has proven successful.

Supervisor Gaffney told The Freeman today that the question of a curfew was aired at the last town board meeting and while no action was taken, the board decided to "find out what it's (the problem) all about."

He said that since Highland is an unincorporated village it hasn't any legal right to impose a curfew on the entire town.

Highland comprises about half of the town's 6,000 population. Its total mileage, Gaffney said, is equal to the the street mileage of either Poughkeepsie or Beacon.

Criticizes Handling of Story

Gaffney criticized "handling of the Highland problem" by the Poughkeepsie Journal, which quoted several Highland residents' views on the problem. He lauded, however, a statement by Dr. Carl F. Meekins that the vast majority of Highland teenagers are well behaved and "it's only a few who are giving the town a bad name."

The Journal further quoted Dr. Meekins: "That's unfortunate. This is a good town. We are no worse than any other town. It all comes down to a lack of home control and religious training."

Concerning to annoyance among late-hour drinking, Dr. Meekins said, "We should close our bars at 1 o'clock like they do in Dutchess County and then

Paltz CC Endorses Fair Shift

Majestic Upheld, Board to Get Idea

A proposal calling for a change in the site of the Ulster County Fair from Forsyth Park to a county-owned 200-acre tract within the boundary of the Town of New Paltz, on Wednesday was endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce of that township.

Supervisor George Majestic (D-Gardiner) offered the suggestion recently and today he urged other civic and taxpayers organizations including the Wallkill Chamber of Commerce to get behind the movement.

Would Offer Resolution

"Ulster County is the hub of the area taking in the counties of Columbia, Delaware, Greene, Orange and Dutchess," the supervisor said. "If the proposal gets sufficient support from other organizations I will introduce a resolution before the Board of Supervisors urging the change in the fair site."

Supervisor Majestic noted that if the plans gets enough support and the county board approves it, the supervisors could put money in the 1964 budget for the fair.

Name Ex-Paltz Educator To Study School Speedup

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — An educational consultant is beginning a study for the State Education Department aimed at finding ways of extending the school year and speeding a child's academic journey from kindergarten to high school.

Dr. George I. Thomas, 48, a native of Hartford, Conn., and former superintendent of schools in Morristown, N.J., has been hired to carry out the study.

From 1952 to 1955, Thomas directed the Laboratory School at the New York State University College in New Paltz.

His salary for taking on what will be unquestionably an educational hot potato is $15,000 a year.

The study and experimentation may be lengthy and wide-ranging, with controversy virtually inevitable.

Thomas, whose appointment was announced Wednesday by Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr., says he cannot estimate how long the study will take.

The scope and complexity of the study make such an estimate difficult, Thomas told a reporter Wednesday.

In approving the school year project, the 1963 Legislature said its purpose was "'to enrich and intensify the school program, to make better use of educational facilities and, at the same time, to achieve significant economy by providing an expanded school day and expanded school year."

The program will include experiments "'to discover the educational, social and other impacts of rescheduling the school year from the present 13-year system to a 12 or 11-year-system," while still providing as many or more hours of instruction.

Will Discuss Downtown School Bus

Transportation of school children from downtown areas to the Sophie G. Finn School, Mary's Avenue, is due to be discussed at a meeting to be called soon, Alderman Frank C. Sass (D) Seventh Ward, Common Council majority leader, reported today.

Parents in lower sections of the city, he said, object to different regulations affecting children within city bounds and those in outlying districts, and they have asked to confer with Sass and the school board's transportation committee.

Seek Uniform Policy

Parents in the city, he noted, seek a regulation that will be uniform throughout the district. Under present regulation a half-mile distance applies to children ranging in age from Kindergarten through third grade, while a distance limit of a mile applies to children in the city ranging in age from Kindergarten to sixth grade.

Last year, Sass noted, transportation was provided for 97 children in downtown areas. Protest followed a report that the number this year would be 20, and it was finally reported at 27.

Lack of sidewalke in the outlying areas of the district, he said, has been cited as the reason for the distance limit there. He noted that there are also no sidewalks near the Mary's Avenue School. Some children, he said, walk there from points as distant as the Rondout Creek Bridge.

Notes 18 Complaints

Sass said he had received 18 telephone calls protesting the difference in regulations. He suggested that complaints be made to James Tobin, who is in charge of transportation in the district.

A referendum vote several years ago decided the transportation policy, he noted, but he

Doubt March Will Hasten CR Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—The historic civil rights march on Washington—massive and orderly and moving — has dramatized the wants of Negroes in America, but leaders still faced the task today of trying to turn drama into action.

Just the Beginning

Speaker after speaker told the 200,000 Negro and white sympathizers massed in front of the Lincoln Memorial Wednesday that their demonstration was no more than a beginning.

"Those who hope that the Negro needed to blow off steam and will now be content," said the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., "will have a rude awakening if the nation returns to business as usual."

Biggest Crowd Ever

The estimate of the size of the audience came from Police Chief Robert V. Murray, he described it as "the largest crowd of participants in any Washington event" in his memory, and possibly the greatest number taking active part in an event in the capital's history.

Demonstrators and their leaders made it clear that one sign of progress, in their view, would be congressional approval of President Kennedy's civil rights bill. But there was no evidence that the demonstration would move the Congress into any faster consideration of the bill.

Dignity Impresses Capital

Kennedy, like the civil rights leaders, also talked in terms of a beginning. He met with King and the other civil rights leaders after the demonstration and said, "We have a long way yet to travel."

But the President also said "the cause of 20 million Negroes has been advanced by the program so appropriately before the nation's shrine to the Great Emancipator."

Kennedy, in his statement, spoke of the demonstration's "quiet dignity," and this was the element of the day that probably most impressed the city of Washington.

Police had three minor arrests —none of a demonstrator. Red Cross workers reported what they expected for a crowd so large: a share of headaches, faintings, broken bones and insect bites. Demonstrators, tired and quiet, headed home in their special buses and trains.

By 9 p.m., Washington police reported the city normal, and relieved almost all special police details from duty.

At the height of the ceremonies, the crowds massed far east along the lengthy pool that reflects the Washington Monument and far north almost to the State Department and far south near the parkways by the Potomac River.

Notes Achievement

After the demonstration, A. Philip Randolph, 74, Negro director of the march and president of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, said: "The march has already achieved its objective: It has awakened and

Schwenk Signals Start of School Safety Campaign

Mayor John J. Schwenk received the first School's Open—Drive Carefully safety poster Wednesday signalling the start of the Automobile Club of New York's 18th annual fall traffic safety campaign in Kingston. Police Chief Robert F. Murphy also participated in the ceremony.

City Hall Ceremony

The colorful poster was presented to the mayor in a ceremony at City Hall by Charles J. Murphy, director of traffic engineering and safety of the state organization. Coinciding with the return to school of thousands of local children, posters will be displayed at major street intersections and school crossings during September and October.

In Ulster County 500 posters asking motorists to use added caution during the school reopening period will be put up on utility and street poles by police and school officials and members of the American Automobile Association's staff.

Motorists will receive an additional warning in the form of 160,000 School's Open bumper strips. These are being distributed by the AAA for display on

Will Save Taxpayers Thousands

Equalization Now 35 for Kingston

Mayor John J. Schwenk today announced receipt of a letter from the State Board of Equalization and Assessment noting that the special equalization rate for the City of Kingston to be used in appropriating the 1963-64 school taxes has been raised from 34 to 35 per cent.

Of nine towns and the city in the consolidated school district, the special equalization rate has been increased one per cent in the city, and in the towns of Rosendale and Woodstock. In the Township of Kingston, the rate decreased two per cent. No change was reported for six towns.

Acknowledged Inequities

The special equalization rates to be used for school tax purposes only, was ordered by the equalization board as a result of a letter sent the board by Mayor Schwenk last March 8, after the education board had refused to apply for special rates, even though the state board had notified the local board that inequities existed in the regular town rates.

This increase of one per cent for the city, the mayor explained, will save its taxpayers many thousands of dollars.

The mayor was notified last May 14 that the state had decided to fix special school district rates, and a subsequent notice said the state board had agreed to raise the equalization rate affecting the general tax from 33 to 34 per cent.

This followed notice of a tentative rate of 33. Mayor Schwenk and Corporation Counsel Harry Gold put in the city's bid for a higher rate to affect the general tax at a March 26 hearing in Albany.

Higher Rate—Lower Taxes

The mayor explained after the increase that the higher the rate the lower amount of taxes the city pays to the county and

County Building Bids on Sept. 16

Opening of bids for the new Ulster County Office building on Main Street has been postponed until September 16, in order to allow for additional bidders to figure the job. Bids will be opened at 2 p. m., on that date.

The original date for opening bids was August 26, but at that time additional time was requested by local bidders who had been delayed in submitting bids due to inability to get quotations on certain items, including steel and metal siding.

It is understood that a large number of bids had been submitted, including local bidders. In order to give all bidders an equal chance, the committee postponed opening of bids and extended the time three weeks.

Plans call for erection of a six-story building on the site of the present Main Street parking lot, adjacent to the present county clerk's office building on property acquired by the county several years ago when the old Eagle Hotel was purchased and razed.

McHugh Won't Run Again, Pick Wallkill Councilman

Supervisor Jesse McHugh (R-Shawangunk) a member of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors the last 14 years and chairman the last two years, today confirmed a report he will not seek another term at the November election.

Town Republican committeemen have selected Charles E. Penney, Wallkill, an incumbent councilman, as candidate for supervisor to succeed Supervisor McHugh. Penney is a retired successful dealer in farm machinery and has been active in civic and other affairs of the township many years.

Supervisor McHugh said a Republican caucus is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 14 at 8 p. m. at the Community Hall, at which time Penney and a slate of candidates will be formally nominated.

The retiring supervisor is vice-chairman of the Ulster County Republican Committee and served eight years as majority leader of the Board of Supervisors. He succeeded Supervisor Robert F. Phinney (R-11th Ward), Kingston, as chairman of the county board.

Others selected for offices by the Town Republican Committee, according to Supervisor McHugh, are:

Town Clerk Mrs. Elizabeth Hammesfahr, who also serves as collector; for town highway superintendent Russell Terwilliger, incumbent; for justice of the peace, M. J. Oscar Smith in place of Seth Lippencott who held the office more than 30 years, and who is not seeking re-election.

E. Lester Mack has been selected by the town GOP committee as councilman to succeed incumbent Councilman Penney, slated for the nomination as supervisor. Herman Mahlandt, incumbent chairman of the board of assessors, has been selected by the committee for another four-year term, and Fred Grau has been named for nomination as assessor for a two-year term. He was appointed assessor to fill the unexpired term of the late Fred Bender of Walker Valley.

ARRANGING YOUNG GOP PARLEY—Local committee members met recently to arrange plans for the Sept. 6-7 quarterly meeting of the Board of Governors of all Young Republican Clubs of New York State. The two-day meetings will be held at the Gov. Clinton Hotel. The local committee includes seated (l-r) Diane Brayman, assistant secretary; Jo Ann Faerber, special arrangements; John Van Steenburgh, president of the Ulster County Young GOP; Mrs. Christine Gallop, county governor and Ellen Donovan, registration. Standing (l-r) are Jason Goumas, special arrangements; James G. Foust, county co-governor; James A. Rapp, special arrangements and Ira Trast, registration. Others, not present for the photo who are assisting, include Donald R. MacCollam, past president of the county group; Judith Petro, secretary; Rosemary Wolff, fourth vice-president and Naomi Van Steenburgh, publicity chairman.

Rocky Thinks Road Costs Will Lessen After 1965; Advocates Tax Slash Now

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) —Gov. Rockefelller says New York State will continue to spend at high levels for highway construction during the next three years.

But the Republican governor made public Wednesday night a new plan for financing that suggested an eventual curtailment of record state expenditures for roads.

Rockefelller was here for the State Exposition and had a heavy round of activities at the fair grounds on his calendar today.

His agenda called for the governor and Mrs. Rockefeller to tour the grounds, visit exhibits and appear at a breakfast and luncheon at the exposition.

In his speech Wednesday night at the State Exposition Farm Dinner, Rockefeller also urged Congress to authorize a tax cut that would be effective immediately in order to stimulate the nation's economy.

The governor also called for an end to deficit spending by the national government.

On the subject of state highways, Rockefeller said that direct spending for roads during his second term would continue to average $322 million, as it did during his first term.

But he disclosed changes his administration plans in the methods of appropriations, which largely determine the state's long-range commitments on highway construction.

In the past, the state has appropriated its own funds to speed construction of federally aided projects.

The money was allocated with the expectation of federal reimbursement.

The federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of highways on the Interstate system and 50 per cent of the cost of major state roads.

A gradual tightening of the state's financial position over the past few years has left the administration with no substantial funds for immediate spending against future federal reimbursements.

Because of this, Rockefeller said last night, the state was abandoning the practice of assigning its own money. The repayment by the federal government under that practice has been stretched over three years.

The state will peg its highway spending directly to the availability of federal funds.

This approach eventually will slow the state highway program to the pace of the federal government.

The governor said, however, that the highway program would be maintained in the next three years of his administration at current levels.

Rocky Makes Appeal

Congress Is Asked For More Funds to Finish Canal Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller appealed to Congress today for an additional $6.8 million in federal funds to allow completion of an improvement project on a 184-mile link of the state's Barge Canal System.

The project calls for deepening of channels and raising bridges to allow passsage of larger vessels between Waterford on the Hudson River and Oswego, on Lake Ontario.

$28 Million Nearly Used

Initial appropriations totaling $28 million are almost exchausted with the work 80 per cent complete.

Congresss originally authorized the project in 1935, setting the cost at $27 million.

But Rockefeller said in a statement prepared for a meeting of the Senate Public Works Committee's subcommittee on flood control, rivers and harbors, that "there should be full recognition given to the inflationary increases in costs."

The governor did not appear in person for the hearing but was represented by Assemblyman Edward F. Crawford, R-Oswego, chairman of the New York State Joint Legislative Committee on the Barge Canal.

Crawford said in a prepared statement of his own that the major remaining work involved the raising of 13 bridges and the project could be completed by 1965 if the addditional $6.8 million were authorized.

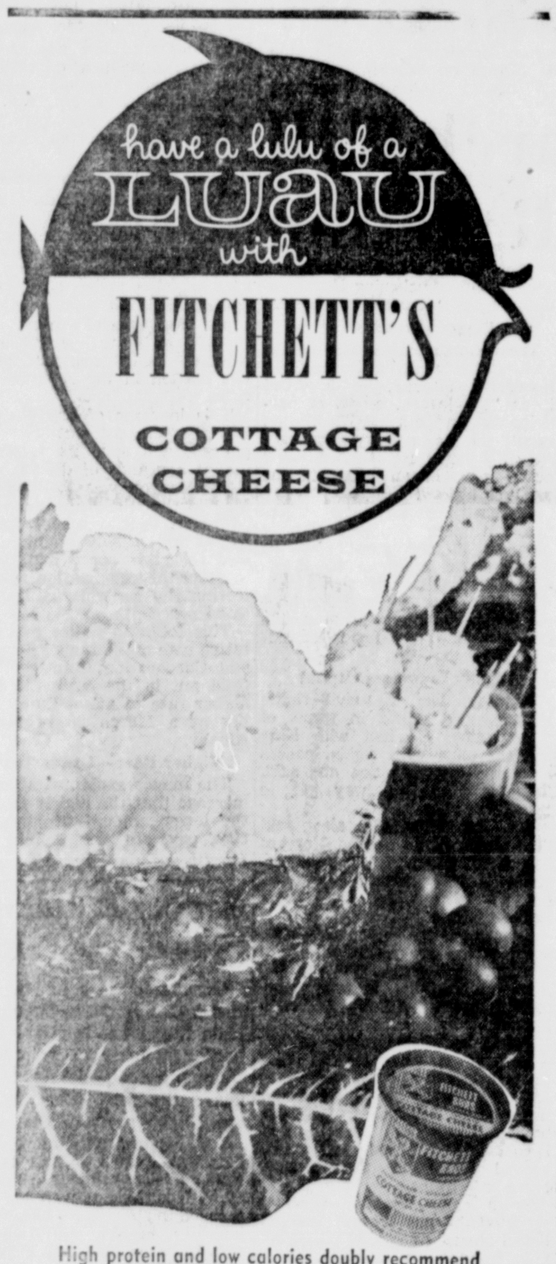

Crawford's committee is now studying the question of whether the state should offer to turn the barge canal system over to the federal government.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is looking into the other side — whether the federal government would want to accept it.

State officials have said the canal system needs to be modernized, a project that would cost hundreds of millions of dollars, and the state does not have that kind of money to spend on the toll-free waterway.

A transfer of ownership also will include transfer of responsibility for financing rehabilitation of the waterway.

Answers the Door, Finds Chimpanzee

CHATHAM, N. Y. (AP) —The Clarence Lake family heard a knock at their door and found a chimpanzee.

The door was slammed rather unceremoniously, but the chimp, undaunted, did a few dance steps on the roof to cheer up his reluctant hosts.

When the chimp's keeper arrived from the county fairgrounds the Lakes went back to watching television.

Geertsema and Rakov to Bid For Democratic Nominations

TOBIE GEERTSEMA

PETER W. RAKOV

Two top ranking Woodstock Democratic Club officials — president Tobie Geertsema and vice president Peter W. Rakov—announced today they would seek the nominations for Councilman and Justice of the Peace, respectively, at the Sept. 10 caucus of the Democratic Party.

Mrs. Geertsema, the first and only woman ever elected to the Woodstock Town Board, was a surprise victor six years ago when she won the councilman post over the Republican incumbent. She did not seek re-election at the end of her four-year term.

After an absence of two years from the political scene, she is endeavoring to regain the post from which she retired undefeated because, she says, she once again feels she is in a position to contribute the time necessary for the job; and because she feels that a non-political approach, based on past political experience, is now needed more than ever in Woodstock government with such important matters as planning and zoning looming in the near future.

First Bid for Office

In seeking the Justice of the Peace designation, Rakov, who is administrative assistant to the president at Rotron, will be making his first bid for public office. He is the first candidate—Democrat or Republican—to declare his intentions.

In announcing his candidacy, Rakov said: "If I receive the Democratic nomination and am subsequently elected, I intend to bring a high sense of firm dedication and all encompassing interest to the post and to competently administer justice for all Woodstock people regardless of their social, economic or political status."

In private life the wife of Theodore S. Geertsema of the Glasco Turnpike, Mrs. Geertsema is the mother of 8-year-old twin daughters and a two-year-old son. Prior to her marriage, she earned political science degrees from Berea College in Kentucky; worked as a newspaper reporter, research assistant and editor—primarily in the field of economics, taxation and finance.

Newspaper Editor

A resident of Woodstock for the past 10 years, since her husband joined Rotron, she is currently serving as assistant editor of the Record-Press; has been affiliated with numerous local causes and organizations, including the Library Fair, the Committee of 500 for Centralization with Onteora, the dedication program for Woodstock's new post office, the Cancer Fund drive and others.

As councilman from 1958-61, she proposed the resolution which led to the formation of the Planning Board, headed the Board's committee for street numbering, served on other township wide committees for water district repairs and formulation of ordinances. She also advocated the idea of town board meetings on fixed dates and meeting agendas.

Rakov was chairman of the dinner by the club this year in honor of State Comptroller Arthur Levitt. He is presently the Internal Vice President of the Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce and was president of the organization last year. With the Jaycees, he also served as chairman of the circus committee last year and of the automobile seat bealt committee this year.

Interested in Arts

Interested in serving the arts, Rakov is vice chairman of the Friends of the Turnau Opera Association, as well as a founding member and now publicity chairman of the Onteora District Arts Council. He was a founder last year of the Woodstock Toastmasters Club and was first vice president of that group.

Rakov returned to Woodstock after working for IBM as an Employe Benefits Analyst at its corporate headquarters in New York City for three years. Prior to that he attended Cornell Law School, Colgate University and Columbia University, having obtained his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees in English from the latter two schools, respectively. He served as an enlisted man in the U. S. Army from 1955 until 1957 as personnel supervisor of the U. S. Army Hospital in Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Harold L. Rakov of Kingston.

D. C. March Fascinates Foreign Church Leaders

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Foreign church leaders looked on with fascination Wednesday at the civil rights demonstration in Washington.

Gathered around a television set here at a meeting of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches, they seemed alternately amused, puzzled and deeply moved.

It was a drama, just observing them.

They included Africans, Japanese, Germans, Frenchmen, Britishers and others — about 50 of them, of many denominations.

They crowded into a lounge, filling all the seats and practicable standing places to watch the mass American spectacle.

An afternoon working session was delayed a half hour while they listened to a speech by the Rev. Martin Luther King, Negro integration leader.

One separate segment of the show presented Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-South Carolina, saying that Negroes in America have it better than anywhere else in the world because they have more houses, more refrigerators, more cars and more washing machines. . . .

At that point in the listing of material gooods, the overseas churchmen burst into whoops of laughter.

Bits of Americana that showed up on the screene obviously seemed strangely incogruous to them.

When a scene showed singer Mahalia Jackson giving forth with a song in blues rhythm, with a crowd clapping around her, the foreigners seemed perplexed, even startled at first, and then studiously interested.

WHO OWNS THEM?

Leaders of nations antagonistic toward the United States know what they're doing when they shut off their people from the news of our doings.

It's not propaganda so much as the daily items in our press which might make their citizens wonder if their leaders are telling them the whole truth.

Take the reports of stockholders meetings, which make up a good bit of the business news grist. Our antagonists heap scorn on Wall Street and the "capitalist" masters" who own the great companies in the United States.

Just who does own these companies?

Well, the steel industry has just reported that it had 1,230,765 stockholders in 1962.

Even more revealing is the steady trend to wider stock ownership.

Just after the war, in 1946, there were 559,783 holders of steel stocks. In 1950, this number had increased to 633,216. In the 12 years following the number of shareholders just about doubled.

It wouldn't be too difficult for those behind the curtains to perceive that the people own these "capitalist" companies. This is something for the people behind the curtains to ponder.

RIVER OF IDEAS

Each month the Small Business Administration prints a fat pamphlet loaded with brief abstracts describing recently patented gadgets, gizmos and whatnots that are looking for a manufacturer.

For instance, August's booklet contains such ideas as:

A remote control device for starting a car and turning on its heater from inside the house.

A bath tub with a side or end door to allow a disabled person to enter and leave without effort.

A three-dimensional paper doll.

A can flattener for home or commercial use.

A glove for volley ball players.

A manually operated shoe shining machine.

An improved back plaster.

Not all the listings fall under the "gadget" classification, of course. There are also such things as a design for a full-size airliner, a new type of internal combustion engine and a coke oven.

A lot of the ideas will never see the light of day again, but some of them are going to make fortunes for their inventors. Some of them may even change our way of life.

The Red Chinese say the test ban is a fraud and call for an end to all nuclear testing—until, one supposes, they can get around to some themselves.

SUMMER'S BEST STORY

In a time when significant stories jostle each other for space on the wires and in the papers, we have Great Britain to thank for the reading treat of the summer.

It involves no politics, no event of awesome international import.

It is just a story of good, old-fashioned skullduggery, spiced with drama, plenty of suspense, a mysterious blonde and the heartwarming assurance that Scotland Yard is still operating in the best tradition of the whodunit school.

This summer of 1963 would have been a much less exciting season without the columns of reading provided by The Great Train Robbery — or perhaps The Greatest Train Robbery.

Watch for more exciting chapters in this saga in the days to come. The boys have a long way to go before the wrap-up story is written.

Hurrah for a change in news pace!

BARUCH PLAN RECALLED

The 93rd birthday of Bernard Baruch is an occasion for congratulations. It is even more so because the occasion comes at a time when Baruch's authorship of the first U.S. plan for control of nuclear weapons is being recalled.

That plan is again in the news because of the limited nuclear test ban treaty which is now up before the Senate for ratification. More than one commentator has noted, and properly, that had the Soviet Union agreed to the Baruch plan or some modification of it just after World War II the terrible flowering of nuclear weapons could have been averted and the world would not now be on the verge of disaster.

The admonition about not crying over spilt milk applies here. But on his 93rd birthday Bernard Baruch merits special honor for the great effort he made.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

A PROPOSAL TO EASE THE GOLD DRAIN

Creative ideas come few and far between Maybe Bernard L. Lamb, a non-professional student of international monetary affairs from Ho-Ho-Kus, New Jersey, has one.

Like other Americans, Mr. Lamb is concerned about the behavior of Kennedy's advisers—the "Rover Boys from Cambridge," as he calls them—when it comes to prescribing a policy for halting the drain of U. S. gold into foreign hands. In the first quarter of 1963 the deficit in our balance of payments was running at the annual rate of $3.2 billion as compared with the deficit of $2.2 billion for the whole of 1962. The second quarter of the year threatened, when the figures were in, to push the deficit to a rate of $3.5 billion. The fault was not due to our exporters, who took in a surplus of $4.5 billion over the cost of imports for 1962, and who are not doing badly this year. What produces the adverse balance of payments is a combination of spending for military defense abroad and for foreign aid, plus investment in wholly or partially U. S.-owned foreign plants.

To Mr. Lamb it seems crazy that an adverse balance of international payments should bother a rich nation like the United States. After all, this country has lots of long-term debts that are owed to it. To begin, there is upwards of $19 billion carried on the U. S. Treasury's books as World War I indebtedness. Finland has paid us on the World War I debt, but other countries seem to have forgotten all about the financing of the first Armageddon. The U. S. will probably never see the money that our World War I Allies "hired."

There are, however, long-term debts of some $13 billion that are owed to us because of foreign-assistance programs since World War II. A Morgan-Guaranty survey breaks the outstanding "live" debt down into $3.7 billion lent by the Export-Import Bank, $3.3 billion remaining from a special loan to the United Kingdom in 1946; $3 billion in other aid loans; $1.8 billion for surplus-property and lend-lease settlements; $1.5 billion for sales of farm products, plus interest and commissions that are still due.

What Mr. Lamb proposes is that we offer France, West Germany, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, and the United Kingdom a ten percent discount for accelerated payment of these loans in their own currencies—francs, pounds, lire, marks, yen, and so on. Then, quoting Mr. Lamb, 'we should organize an American Bankers consortium to draw on these currencies for travelers' checks and travelers' letters of credit." American citizens would pay at home in dollars for their travelers' checks, but when the checks were cashed in Europe they would be balanced off against the accelerated payment offerings in francs, pounds, etc., of the nations that owe us long-term money.

Foreign travel might be restricted in certain countries to the use of the foreign currencies. The tourist might be allowed, in Mr. Lamb's plan, a discount on the understanding that the "blocked" funds would be used for travel expense and for gifts purchased in foreign countries.

Maybe Mr. Lamb's idea is not practicable. After all, nobody can be compelled legally to pay off on a long-term debt unless it is so stipulated in the bond. And there might be internal difficulties in kicking up the pounds and lire. But I remember the time I was traveling on a magazine expense account in Europe in 1946. My home office told me to use all the francs I needed—after all, it was only "blocked" money. So I spent freely, building up good will—and sources—for my boss. Maybe Mr. Lamb has an idea that would impel lots of Americans to travel. And maybe he has an idea that would be welcomed by Germany, France, etc., as a way of reducing their long-term debt at favorable discount rates without putting up any gold.

Mr. Lamb is an amateur—and this columnist is an amateur in passing the suggestion along. But something has to be done about that drain of gold. Assisted tourism, paid for in foreign currencies carved out of debts that are due us in the future, might possibly be the complement to economist Eliot Janeway's suggestion for tax rebates to exporters. If all this is impracticable, so be it. But all avenues to international solvency seem to this columnist to be worth exploring.

The DOCTOR SAYS

Dreams, Black-and-White Or Color—We Need Them

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Do you dream in black and white or gorgeous colors? Scientific observers at the University of Chicago sleep laboratories have found that you may do either, and that they can control this and other aspects of dreaming by giving their subjects certain hormones.

When they gave pituitary extract, the subjects had pleasant dreams that were easily remembered and came complete with a full range of color. When they gave adrenal extract the dreams were frightening, hard to remember, and colorless.

To another question: Do animals talk in our dreams? I can give a personal answer. Animals that I have enjoyed as pets do talk, and I believe that this indicates that anything that we are capable of imagining may appear to us as a reality when we dream.

The blind have also been found to dream. The only difference is that if they were born blind they dream only of the world as they know it. In their dreams they hear, touch, taste, and smell but have no visual images.

In those who become blind after their visual sense has been well developed, visual images become less and less a part of their dreams as time goes on.

One of the important discoveries that has been made about dreaming is that it appears to be not only inevitable, but also a necessary accompaniment of sleep. When sleeping subjects were awakened every time rapid eye movements indicated that they were starting to dream, it was possible to insure that they had a truly dreamless night.

This was found to increase the number of times the subject would start to dream as though the mind was not going to take these interruptions without a protest.

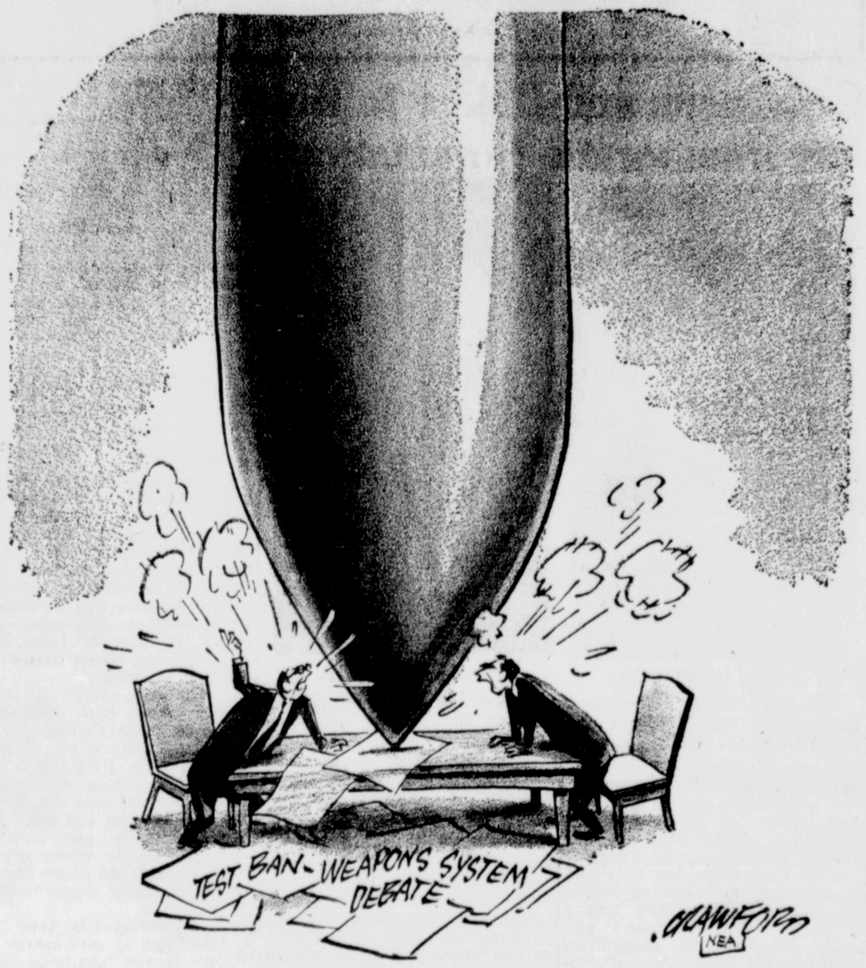

When this prevention of dreaming was persisted in for several nights the subjects became edgy, jittery, and had great difficulty concentrating.

At this point they were allowed to dream uninterruptedly. The length of time spent in dreaming was found to be twice what it had normally been. This was true for several nights.

Other subjects were awakened the same number of times as the first group had been, but at times when they were not dreaming. They did not become upset and, when allowed to sleep without interruption, the length of their dreams was increased.

This would seem to indicate that dreaming, in some way not yet known, helps us to maintain our balance and get the most good from our sleep.

Purely Theoretical?

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Our Ulster County Fair of 1963 came and went August 21 and 22 and both days were warm and clear. It seems this year, in the same week the Dutchess Connty Fair was held, so perhaps more people would have been at the local fair, if these fairs did not come the same days. The greatest excitement of small boys seemed to be around the Army equipment of the 1st Bn. (105 S P) 156th Artillery, with the army men in uniform standing by, perhaps that is what playgrounds need.

The University Women had a good display of books., but I think they could have used the empty tables nearby for the books which remained in boxes under the table. To carry the books you buy in your arms and other items and have to crawl under the tables is a little difficult for the book buyers, I though. Readers also need elbow room, and so I personally think they could be spread out more. Once the fair is underway, and they see empty table space as it was in 1963, no doubt they could have arranged to use it.

One new display which attracted no end of sightseers was Mrs. Ora Sagar's display of Colonial antiques and books, postal cards, picture etc., of the Hudson river, Kingston, Ulster County etc. People seemed to stand there, lost in their own thoughts, and perhaps memories looking and reading these fascinating items. Many of her Ulster County Atlas of 1875 pictures are 'cello wrapped ready for framing. Mrs. Sagar is a charming hostess as well as her daughter and sister. Historians and collectors like Walter F. Geroldsek, and Captain Andrew Hickey stopped there to chat and look at the pictures. Mrs. Sagar certainly contributed an interesting historical display to our Ulster County Fair, which I noticed children as well as grown ups gathered around to enjoy.

I especially liked the Infirmary art and craft display and looked at Mrs. Bassett's lovely little water-colors and stamp pictures. They are small, neat and colorful, drawn in Grandma Moses style. Mrs. Bassett formerly lived in Sleightsburgh and used to color photographs for commercial photographers, she is now 93 and full of spirit, they tell me, and cuts out and pastes stamps and draws little scenes around them. I understand these little pictures, nicely framed can be had at the Infrmary. I know her personally, and used to chat with her, when she and her son used to go passed my door to the Orpheum theatre, when she came over from Sleightsburgh.

I like to buy and try the cookies and cup cakes at the various small fairs around about here. The best so far were at the 4-H booth, who bake the cookies, cakes and pies right before you. I had their molasses cookies and oatmeal on Wednesday, and wanted more on Thursday, but they were all sold out. Last year, also, as I remember, they sold out completely. I do hope they will make many more cookies, and perhaps chocolate cup cakes with fudge icing next year. Incidentally I was admiring the flower exhibit, right here on Broadway opposite our Municipal Auditorium grown by the ladies of the Central Bakery. They have the tallest and most colorful flowers, and I think that is the only flower display on Broadway on that side of the street. Perhaps someday blue ribbons will be given, to those who grow beautiful flowers which can be seen around private homes or public places. I noticed two elderly ladies at the Forsyth Park area plucking some little leaves near some stones, with like purple flowers. I did it too. The leaves had a minty aroma, but we did not know what it was, some sort of a herb, they decided.

Capital March Is Condemned As Day of Public Disgrace

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—The "March on Washington" will go down in history as marking a day of public disgrace—a step backward in the evolution of the American system of government. For the image of the United States presented to the world is that of a republic which had professed to believe in voluntarism rather than coercion, but which on August 28, 1963, permitted itself to be portrayed as unable to legislate "equal rights" for its citizens except under the intimidating influence of mass demonstrations.

The press, television and radio, the public forums in halls and stadiums—all have been available heretofore as mediums through which the "right of petition" could be effectively expressed and public opinion formed on controversial questions. But a minority group—led by men who drew to their side church leaders and groups as well as civic organizations—decided that a massive publicity stunt would be a better way to impress Congress and the President with the idea that unemployment and racial discrimination can be legislated out of existence.

Government by mob has on a few occasions in the past darkened the pages of American history. A. Philip Randolph, the the leader of the "march" this week, frankly characterized the "march" as a symbol of "revolution." He said:

Attention Is Key

"In our pluralistic democratic society, causes must gain acceptance and approval and support. They can only gain acceptance, approval and support if they get attention, and in order to get attention—with numerous causes seeking the focus of public opinion—it is necessary for the dramatization to be developed of a given cause. . . ."

Mr. Randolph, however, was not content with trying to mobilize American public opinion. He told an audience at the National Press Club on Monday that the "March on Washington" would bring into "world focus" the struggle of peoples of color in America "for first-class citizenship." He added:

"It will have the value of giving the peoples of the world some concept of this problem. . . . It will serve to bring world pressure upon the United States of America to step up the struggle to wipe out race bias, because in the cold war—in the conflict of the free world with the totalitarian world—the free world is seeking the alliance of the Afro-Asian world. And in order that the free world may win the alliance of the Afro-Asian world, the free world must show that we are not only making promises to Africa and promises to Asia to help them advance their cause, but we are going to keep our promises, fulfill our promises with our own citizens at home—especially Negroes of African descent.

African Pressure

"Africa will not trust the United States in its promise to the peoples of Africa unless they realize and understand that the Negroes here in America are giving and evincing basic trust in the promises that have been made by our own country to them. And so, the 'March on Washington' is an expression, a great step forward of the confrontation between the civil-rights revolution and our American society."

But could not the merits of the civil-rights "revolution" have been presented effectively to American audiences without street demonstrations? Couldn't the State Department and the "Voice of America" instead have dealt comprehensively abroad with the story of the efforts being made inside the United States to deal with the "civil rights" problems?

Also, would it not have been better if the leaders of the "march" had not by their tactics incurred some unfavorable publicity? What shall be said, for instance, of the Gallup Poll result published this week in many newspapers which indicated that 63 per cent of the American people disapproved of the "March on Washington" and thought it unnecessary? Last month another Gallup Poll revealed that six out of every ten Americans believe the mass demonstrations by the Negroes would hurt their cause.

Right of Petition

The "right of petition" is a fundamental principle of the Constitution, but it assumes an orderly and non-provocative procedure. The Federal government had to go to large expenses to police the Wednesday demonstration here and to keep people from crowding into the city who might participate in disorders. To say that the "march" was successful because large-scale violence was avoided is to ignore the bitterness and resentment prevalent on that day in a city whose normal community life was disrupted. Tens of thousands of people remained secluded in their homes lest they become injured or subjected to unwarranted delays in moving to and from their residences. American citizens were prevented from pursuing their customary ways. Their right to go to their places of employment was impaired by fear of bodily injury.

Would this have happened if the petitioners had relied on the process of reason in a voluntary society, or was it a sample of what happens in backward countries when some force stronger than the individual takes over and prevents freedom of movement? Are injustices remedied by creating more injustices, and is the cause of civil rights advanced by interfering with the civil rights of non-participants in the mass demonstrations?

These are questions which will need answering, and the full effect of what may come to be called "the mess in Washington" could be reflected in future elections. For what was proved by the big demonstration — that in free America only the mob can get laws passed covering the issue of "civil rights."

Capital March Drew 50,000 From State

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of New Yorkers bolstered the ranks of civil rights marchers who swept through the nation's capital Wednesday.

Almost every section of the state was represented in the march. New York City provided the largest delegation among those who came here in special trains, buses and automobiles.

Republicans Sens. Kenneth B. Keating and Jacob K. Javits called the march one of the most impressive demonstrations they had seen in their political careers.

Keating said the march would not influence Congressmen opposed to civil rights legislation but would affect the nation generally and senators and representatives who have yet to take a position on civil rights.

Javits, who held a reception for march leaders at his Washington house after the demonstration, said it underscored the urgency and determination of the civil rights drive.

"For the first time in history, I think we can break a (civil rights) filibuster," Javits said.

Keating said a filibuster could be broken if the Kennedy administration and congressional leaders show the way and if supporters of civil rights legislation match the determination of its opponents.

The senators attended the rally at the Lincoln Memorial which some New York marchers said drew as many as 50,000 persons from the Empire State. Washington police estimated the total crowd at 200,000.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, Amsterdam Democrat, met with constituents from Cortland at the Washington Monument grounds before the march.

Loses 45 Pounds On Crash Diet

HUDSON, N. Y. (AP) — Mrs. Eleanor Fingar, who describes herself as living proof that "fat people aren't always jolly," had something to smile about today.

After almost three months on a crash diet, she has lost 45 pounds. She says she has 55 pounds to shed before she'll be completely happy.

But the 34-year-old housewife, a resident of nearby West Ghent, peered at her mirror Wednesday and crowed:

"I've got a waistline!"

Her waistline was a sore subject with her June 5 when she checked in at Albany Memorial Hospital. She weighed 219 pounds as she embarked on a medically supervised diet aimed at trimming of 100 pounds.

Tea and dietetic soda formed the bulk of her menu for the first 16 days. Then doctors told her to go home and continue the diet on a ration of 300 calories a day.

But the low-calorie regimen robbed her of her strength and she went back to 800 calories a day.

"The weight loss is more gradual now," she said. "But that's fine with me. I haven't felt so well in years."

She said she had broken her "pattern of compulsive eating."

The other night, she reported, she made 15 trips to the refrigerator, ate two tomatoes and "slammed the door on myself 13 times."

Realize Economic Need for Negroes In Advertising

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Racial integration of advertisements is moving ahead slowly but steadily.

More and more Negro models are appearing alongside white models.

Recently Macy's, the big New York department store chain pictured five hand-holding youngsters in an ad for children's apparel. One was a Negro and another an Oriental.

While there is strong pressure from the Negro community for greater employment of Negro models, a real impetus comes from a desire by advertisers to reach the Negro market. This market comprises almost 11 per cent of the US population, or 20 million persons, with $19 billion in annual purchasing power

Some companies have paid special attention to the Negro market for many years. Sometimes this was a part of a program aimed at many ethnic groups and neighborhoods.

Until recently efforts to reach the Negro market were mainly confined to the Negro press. Now general media are being used.

The trend toward use of Negro models is quite new and the advertising industry is having its problems.

"Many advertisers and agencies don't know how to do it," an industry spokesman said. "A problem is attracting too much attention to the models. After all, you're selling peanut butter, not integration.

"There is a definite increase in the use of Negro models in general advertising," said Richard Scheideker, senior vice president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies. "But you have to use them where appropriate and where they will sell products."

NEW SAUGERTIES A&P—Mayor William Ziegler of Saugerties joined with officials of the A&P at ribbon-cutting ceremonies Tuesday at the company's new supermarket on Route 9W at Overbaugh and Burt Streets. The new supermarket, done in early American architecture symbolic of the historic past of the area, replaces company's old store on Main Street, which closed Monday. New store will close at 9 p. m. except on Saturdays when it will close at 6 p. m., and features Plaid trading stamps, automatic exits, mechanized checkouts, wide aisles, air conditioning, parcel pick-up service and ample free parking facilities. Participating in the opening ceremonies were, from the left, George Lake, store dairy department head; Miss Josephine Cecala, Plaid stamp girl; Donald Van Gaasbeck, store manager; Eugene D. LeGrand, company supervisor; Mayor Ziegler; Carl Wirtamen, meat department and John Carpino, produce department heads. (Reynolds photo)

Prayers Urged

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The United Church Women of New Orleans have sent letters to the governors of the nation's 50 states, urging them to proclaim days of prayer for the nation "that we may recognize the sovereignty of God's love in the life of mankind" and that "we may have a respect for the dignity and worth of the individual as a citizen of a democracy," and may find ways to "negotiate tensions with charity instead of fear."

Fish and other sea animals make many strange sounds that can be detected by hydrophones.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday Aug. 29, the 241st day of 1963. There are 124 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, Carrie Nation took her temperance campaign to New York City where she attempted to break up the saloon operated by former heavyweight champion John L. Sullivan.

On this date

In 1782, more than 1,000 persons drowned when the English man-of-war, the Royal George, capsized and sank while undergoing repairs in Portsmouth Harbor, England.

In 1842, Britain obtained possession of Hong Kong under a treaty with China.

In 1898, Anita Newcomb McGee was commissioned acting assistant surgeon to the U.S. Army — the first woman to hold that position.

In 1943, Danish warships were scuttled in Copenhagen Harbor during a World War revolt against Nazi occupation troops.

In 1957, the Senate passed the first major civil rights legislation since Reconstruction days.

Ten years ago . . . France and Cambodia concluded an agreement granting Cambodia full sovereignty over police and courts but with France retaining jurisdiction over French as well as Chinese citizens.

Five years ago . . . President Eisenhower signed the Social Security Amendment, raising both social security benefits and the federal government's contribution.

One year ago . . . President Kennedy announced the retirement of Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter from the Supreme Court and the designation of Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg to succeed him.

Lomenzo Sworn In as Secretary In State Cabinet

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — John P. Lomenzo turned today to his new duties as secretary of state after being praised by Gov. Rockefeller as "'a most devoted and dedicated citizen."

Lomenzo, a former Monroe County judge and unsuccesssful Republican candidate for comptroller last November, was sworn in Wednesday by Abraham H. Davis, Executive Deputy Secretary of State.

About 100 persons, including Rockefellller, looked on as Lomenzo took the oath of offfice.

Within minutes after taking office, Lomenzo performed his first official task — swearing in Capt. Robert G. Burke as commanding officer of the New York Naval Militia.

Lomenzo succeeds Caroline K. Simon, who resigned to become a member of the Court of Claims.

The secretary of state is paid $28,875 a year.

Burke, a New York City lawyer, will serve without salary in his part-time post as head of the naval militia.

Named for Weather Vane

MARION, Ohio (AP)—Salem United Church of Christ long has been affectionately nicknamed "The Rooster Church." When it was built in 1885, a rooster weather vane was place atop the spire, where it remained until the spire was taken down in 1927. Parishioner Robert Sifritt is making a case to display the retired rooster in the church foyer.

In 1960 Tanganyika exported about one-tenth of the world's diamonds.

Three Churches

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP) — Church Street ,down to its last two churches in recent years, has regained one. A gray stone, ivy-festooned building originally built as a place of worship for the First Congregational Church Society, then used for 30 years by a chewing-gum manufacturer, has been purchased by the Bethesda Revival Tabernacle Chapel.

Genesis, first book of the Bible, makes reference to the use of horses for pulling war chariots.

Caution Ahead As Trains Roll

WASHINGTON (AP) — The trains were rolling today, but there were caution lights ahead.

What kept them rolling was strike-blocking legislation quickly enacted Wednesday by Congress and signed into law by President Kennedy.

What touches off the note of caution is the view in several quarters that the legislation only serves to delay a future outbreak of discord and a subsequent strike threat.

286-66 Vote

Racing against the clock—the strike had been set for 12:01 a.m. Eastern Standard Time today—and after four hours of debate, the House at 4:42 p.m. Wednesday approved a resolution passed by the Senate Tuesday night calling for binding arbitration of the two major issues in dispute. The House vote was 286 to 66.

Minutes later the threat of a nationwide rail strike was removed. The carriers announced they were taking down notices of new work rules and the heads of the five rail brotherhoods announced they were canceling their strike plans.

Then, at 6:14 p.m., Kennedy signed the measure.

Having previously declared a railroad strike at this time "intolerable," the President said the legislation "reaffirmed the essential priority of the public interest over any narrower interest."

The President's statement appeared, however, to be couched in terms designed to ward off future criticism.

Some See 'Backward Step'

For even as the bill rolled through Congress—after weeks of indecision and numerous but fruitless government-directed negotiating sessions—there were rumbles that it had stalled off a strike for possibly only six months. Also, there was union criticism that compulsory arbitration of the two issues was a "regrettable and backward step."

The two issues to be arbitrated are the 32,000 firemen's jobs considered unessential by the carriers and regulation of the number of men assigned to train crews.

The law creates a seven-member arbitration board which would have a maximum of 180 days to rule on the two key issues.

Other issues viewed as lesser ones are to be taken up by the unions and the carriers.

The issues to be left to negotiation include such things as wage structure and job security.

The arbitration board will include two members selected by rail management, two by the rail unions and three public members to be named by the two sides.

Syracuse Postmaster To Retire Next Week

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) —Syracuse Postmaster Myron J. Parkinson, under fire for what a federal postal official termed "Irregularities" in the conduct of the Syracuse post office, says he will retire a week from today.

Parkinson said Wednesday he decided to retire from his $14,500-post after 17 years' service rather than fight the charge because, he asserted, the allegation does not accuse him of any personal misconduct.

Parkinson, 68, a former chairman of the Onondaga County Democratic Party, was appointed to the postmaster's post by President Harry S. Truman in 1946.

The postmaster made public a letter from N.M. Meyers, a regional postal inspector for New York State, in which Meyers cited what he termed 50 irregularities in the operation of Syracuse post office.

Parkinson said he felt that the alleged irregularities were "for the most part minor."

Under federal regulations, Parkinson would have been required to retire at age 70.

Educator Says Voting Proposal Asinine

RENSSELAERVILLE, N. Y. (AP) — An assistant state education commissioner has described as "asinine" proposals that New York City residents who are unable to read or write English be permitted to vote if they are literate in Spanish.

Dr. Edwin R. Van Kleeck, stressing the need for more adult education, said Wednesday night that New York State, a leader in public education, had 785,000 residents, aged 25 or over, who had completed less than five years of formal schooling.

"This is the highest number of any state in the nation," he said.

A large bloc of these persons came from Puerto Rico to New York in the last 10 or 15 years, Van Kleeck said.

He commented in a speech at the closing session of The Institute, an experiment in high-level adult education.

Sgt. York Does It Again, Returns From Hospital

PALL MALL, Tenn. (AP)—Sgt. Alvin York, 75, Medal of Honor winner in World War I, returned from a Nashville hospital to his mountain home near here Wednesday night.

"It's good to get this good old mountain air and mountain water," he said.

Doctors said York would be "just as well at home."

Bedridden for nine years and near death several times in the past year, York was admitted to the hospital the last time on July 8 for treatment of bedsores and later suffered a urinary tract infection.

"He doesn't seem to care much anymore," Mrs. York said. "He just lies there and doesn't talk too much. He used to talk a lot."

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It was suddenly decided last February to make a television series to be called "The Greatest Show On Earth."

A bright young producer, Stanley Colbert, was called in, handed the title—and nine weeks to come up with the idea for a dramatic series plus a pilot show.

Colbert, 35, made his deadline, and "The Greatest Show On Earth" will have its ABC premiere on Sept. 17, a circus tale starring Jack Palance.

The producer explained that developing an hour dramatic show involves, largely, following a time-honored recipe.

"First," he said, "you must have a man—a hero—who is in the center of things and to whom things happen. In our show, it almost had to be the owner of the circus. That's Palance."

Then, he continued, there must be a second character—"Ben Casey's Zorba or Dr. Kildare's Gillespie."

"In television mechanics, there must be a source of secondary pressures on the leading man," he continued. "First, you put the lead in conflict with the guest star. Then you heap on added pressure, as when Zorba says, 'Oh, Ben Casey, you can't walk in and play God.' And finally, you have another pressure added-like the girl who wants Casey to treat her like a woman, not a lab technician."

"All hour-long television shows—50 minutes, really—are based on this format," said Colbert, "except, of course, comedies. It takes just about that long to solve all "Greatest Show On Earth," in this classic groove, has Palance playing the man who gets the pressures. His Zorba is Stuart Erwin, playing the circus comptroller. And, then, of course, there are the guest stars. Colbert believes, however, that he has a big extra going for him—the flavor, excitment and color of a circus background.

The Continental Congress deliberated a dozen years before deciding on the bald eagle as the national symbol.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's supermarkets are cooperating to help take the labor out of meal-fixing this Labor Day weekend.

Hamburger and ground beef are widely featured for quick meals. Hams, picnics and Boston buttts are easily prepared pork items. Chicken fryers are another entry in the simple meal derby.

Good Sandwich Items

Sandwich items include canned tuna and peanut butter. Eggs, especially small ones, are economically priced for egg-salad this weekend.

Those desiring a season-end cookout will find an ample supply of rib steaks and spareribs at meat counters.

Small turkeys and quartered turkeys are other economical dishes that lend themselves to oven or grill preparation.

Vegetable selections continue broad, though some items are diminishing as the summer peak wanes. Best buys nationally include green beans, cabbage, topped carrots, celery, bell peppers, tomatoes, cucumbers, potatoes, onions and lettuce.

Grape Bargains Due

Regional vegetable features include eggplant in the Northeast, blackeye peas and squash in the Southwest and artichokes and broccoli on the West Coast.

Among fruits, watermelon and cantaloupe are still the best buys. Other attractions include nectarines, peaches and plums, with some areas getting a good supply of apples. Grapefruit is attractively priced in the West.

Grape bargains will become increasingly attractive in price in coming weeks as a bumper crop comes to market.

Next Stop, Spain

MONTREAL (AP)—Gabrielle LeChance, a missionary in the order of Marie Immaculee, has returned from Texas where she founded several Catechist centers and worked in eight parishes. Her next tour of duty will be in Madrid where she will set up a center for girls at the university.

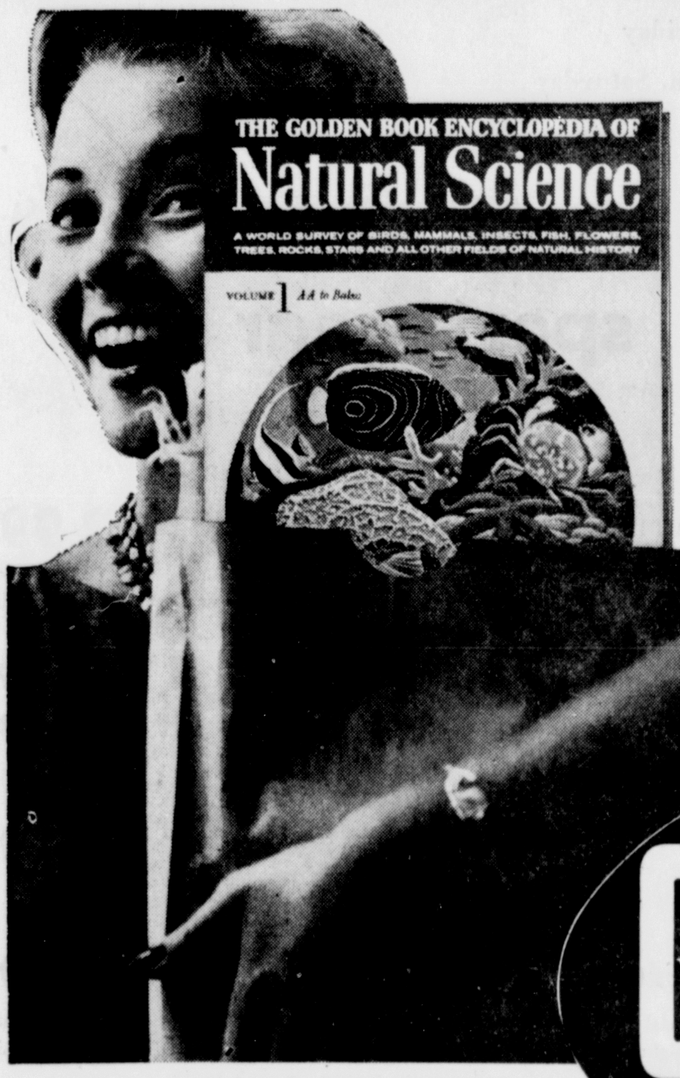

Terwilliger Will Not Run Again For Supervisor

Supervisor A. Richard Terwilliger (R), of Kerhonkson, has notified the Town of Rochester Republican Committee that because of increased business responsibilities, it is no longer possible for him to serve as supervisor of the town. In a letter of August 23, Supervisor Terwilliger notified the Republican committee chairman, Donald L. Schoonmaker, that he cannot accept the nomination again this year.

"It has been a pleasure and an honor to serve our township for the past six years, and it is not possible for me to adequately express my appreciation for the fine support that has been given me by the Republican organization", Supervisor Terwilliger said.

"I will look forward to the opportunity to participate in the nominations of qualified Republican candidates at the caucus in September and to support their election in November", he concluded.

During his six years service on the board, Mr. Terwilliger has served as chairman of several committees and as a member of other committees. He is presently chairman of the Committee on County Clerk and Surrogate; Extension Service; Rules Committee and County Treasurer and Sealer. He is also a member of the Bridge and Highway Committee; Fire Advisory Board Committee; Tax Base Study Committee and Two-way Radio Committee.

Y Camp Finishes Fifth Season at Ticetonyk Site

The YMCA Day Camp situated in Shokan at the foot of Ticetonyk Mountain just finished the 1963 season of eight weeks on August 16 as the most successful camp season of the five operated at the new Catskill Mountain area, according to secretary Louis H. Schafer.

Leon I. Van Heusen, camp director, along with three adult assistants; James Rundle in charge of Senior Camp; Mrs. Hannalore Ruggeri, supervisor in the junior and midget camps and Jan Van Heusen as water front director and swimming instructor, directed the day camps.

Camp director Van Heusen introduced the new Indian Guide and Indian Lore program that consisted of many programs in the newly constructed Indian Council Ring, proved most interesting. Camp director Van Heusen appeared in the council ring dressed in his Indian Chief costume for the ceremonies. Also the archery range proved a delight and taught the boys and girls a new skill long needed in the Y Day Camp.

The weekly scavenger hunt at the foot of the mountain gave all boys and girls an opportunity for nature study at its best. The finding of many articles placed in the foot hills and trails was an education in outdoor living. Snipe hunts were a weekly activity.

The beginning swimming instructions and the teaching of swimming skills for water safety was directed by Jan Van Heusen. He is a certified instructor for the American Red Cross and the National YMCA Aquatic Life Saving Service. Campers that could swim before entering camp were given special tests to ascertain the swimming skill group that they were to enter. Swimmers that had learned to swim were put in the Fish class that is composed of ten swimming skills ending with a 100-yard swim.

The Flying Fish group is also composed of ten skills in advanced swimming and water safety ending with a front dive and the swimming of 220 yards using at least two strokes. The Shark group, which is the final before preparing for Life Saving, is composed of 10 skills mostly in swimming strokes, such as breast stroke, back stroke, side stroke and the American crawl, ending with the ability to do two dives and swim a distance of 440 yards. All the above swiming skills were taught each day throughout the eight weeks of Day Camp.

Two sail boats were added to the water front activities this season. Many campers learned this art of boat handling for the first time at the Y Day Camp. Boating being a popular sport throughout the nation, the teaching of handling row boats and sailboats at camp was considered one of the best instruction groups for future use of the campers in case of an emergency.

Louis H. Schafer, Y secretary and camp adviser, who started the YMCA Day Camp at DeWitt Lake in 1943 and who was instrumental in getting the present camp site, made frequent trips to camp. He was always given a fine welcome, especially when he offered to participate in the noon-day story telling.

The secretary liked to finish his day with his Chinese handcuff stunt, where he ties together three couples of boys and girls and then he will offer a prize to the couple that can free themselves without cutting or untying the ropes. This is not only puzzling to the prisoners but very amusing to the campers in the council watching the many antics used by the boys in trying to free themselves. After a long period of hard work, Trickster Shafer has to show the prisoners the rope slip that has to be made and very easily all boys and girls are freed much to their surprise. He says: "Its just an easy trick."

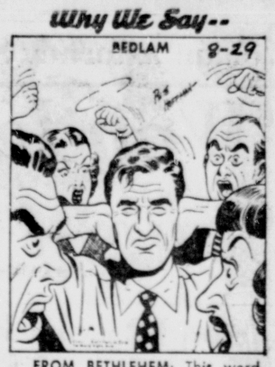

Camp Director Van Heusen stated that many athletic events were promoted, along with swimming races and track and field events and many campers of all ages won blue, red and white satin ribbons for first, second and third places. All of these events were for the highly skilled boys and girls in athletic competition, but the specially promoted program is what really created the camp spirit and kept the boys and girls interested throughout each day. Camp Chairman G. Herbert DeKay and the rest of the committee are of the opinion that the specially promoted program along with the fine weather were responsible for the successful 1963 Day Camp.

James Rundle and Jan Van Heusen, along with the entire group of counsellors collected all articles of clothing and personal belongings left at camp and brought them to the YMCA. Parents desiring any of the articles can call at the Y after Labor Day.

Back to School

"School's Open — Drive Carefully," an annual traffic safety program of the Automobile Club of New York, began in 1946. Since that time there has been a 24 per cent drop in traffic fatalities among children from 5 to 14 years of age. During the same period, motor vehicle registrations in the state have risen more than 93 per cent and there has been a correspondingly high increase in school population.

Woman Attorney Says of 'Rabbi Tom' Trantino

'Wonderful Guy' Gives Up, Sought in N. J. Cop-Killing

EDITOR'S NOTE—The following story of the surrender of alleged killer Thomas (Rabbi Tom) Trantino, 27, wanted in connection with the slaying of two New Jersey policemen, is told by Associated Press reporter Anthony Alborelli and photographer Ray Howard, who met with the man and his woman attorney in a Manhattan tavern preceding a walk to a police station just around the corner.

NEW YORK (AP) — "I got a call from the office that this man Trantino was going to give himself up with his lawyer, Miss Enid Gerling," said Associated Press reporter Anthony Alborelli.

"I was told to go to the Vililage Bar on First Avenue between 21st and 22nd streets," Alborelli continued. "I hurried down, parked my car in front of the station house (on East 22nd St.) I met our motorcycle messenger (George McNiven) and the photographer (Ray Howard) outside.

"The three of us walked in the bar last night. There were five people in it. I saw the attorney (Miss Gerling). She called us over and asked us if we wanted a drink.

Told to Brace Up

"Sitting with her at the bar was this man (Trantino), wearing dark glasses."

Howard said:

"'He (Trantino) was drinking a double, a martini, I think. The attorney told him to have another and brace up and get his wits about him. He took another drink.

"'Tony (Alborelli) introduced me to the young lady lawyer and she introduced us to Trantino. While Tony was writing, getting some notes, I was talking with him (Trantino).

"I took my camera off my neck and sort of hid it so the other customers wouldn't know what's going on."

Alborellii said:

"She (Miss Gerling) said this man wanted to give himself up. His family asked him to give himself up but he was afraid of this Falco, but after he was shot down he decided to give himself up.'

Frank Falco, 25, wanted in connection with the murders of two policemen in a Lodi, N.J., tavern last Monday, was slain early Wednesday by police during a battle in Falco's Manhattan hotel room.

Bartender Knew Nothing

"The bartender knew nothing; it's a neighborhood bar. She (Miss Gerling) told me she wanted a photographer there to take pictures. She said (of Trantino) 'He's a wonderful guy.'"

"'They finished their drink and we went outside and Howard popped shots.'"

Said Howard:

"I got my range on the camera and waited until they started walking. I made two or three shots. I gave my pictures to McNiven and he rushed them in."

Alborelli said:

"'The four of us walked around to the East 22nd Street station house and we walked in. We got before desk officer Lt. Frank Brill.

"The attorney said 'You're looking for this man.'"

Desk Official Amazed

"He (Brill) says 'What for.' She says homiciide. He asked him 'What's your name.' He said Trantino. He (Brill) was amazed."

Howard said: "'They put him (Trantino) in a cage (cell) with another guy."

Trantino was booked on a charge of homiciide and held for authorities of Hackensack, N.J. He gave his occupation as a roofer and his address as Brooklyn.

Miss Gerling told newsmen Trantino was not involved in the shooting but admitted he was at the tavern when the policemen were killed. The attorney said she knew of Trantino through a mutual acquaintance, whom she did not identify.

The victims in the Lodi, N.J., murders were police Sgt. Peter Voto, 40, and Gary Tedesco, 22, a probationary patrolman. They were forced by gunmen into the men's room of the Angel Lounge, forced to disrobe to their underwear, and then gunned down.

Suspend Rescue

doesn't look good when you find eight bodies."

Another pressing problem was water rising in the main shaft. But Tippie said the water was not backing up into the tunnels. Electricians tried to start pumps to remove the water.

"It's like working in a heavy rain," June Crawford, chief engineer of Texas Gulf, said of the rescue operations.

Tippie said three bodies were found near the main shaft the ones reported by the two rescued miners; three more 1,500 feet down the 3,000-foot long tunnel, and two more separately in smaller connecting tunnels near the main shaft.

Frustrating Breakdowns

After the initial success in rescuing Donald Hanna, 27, of Price, Utah, and Paul McKinney, 22, of Moab, rescuers were frustrated by a breakdown in communications, and also by gas, water, debris and other mechanical trouble.

The miners were trapped by the blast at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday. Hanna, McKinney and the other five men were in the 3,000-foot tunnel. Hanna said he heard a dynamite blast in a shorter, 2,700-foot tunnel, then was knocked down by the concussion.

"I'm sure it was a methane gas explosion," he said.

Rescuers were lowered into the mine three or four at a time in a two-ton lift bucket.

Rescurer Nearly Drowns

Water, seeping from the sides of the shaft, almost drowned one rescuer when the bucket stalled for an hour. It nearly filled with water.

Finally holes were punched in the bucket's bottom.

Then the communications system between the surface and rescuers failed.

There was no voice contact with the five men believed to have survived the explosion since Hanna and McKinney left them at 7 a.m. Wednesday.

Hanna said getting out of the mine was "just like Christmas when I was a little kid."

Hanna, McKinney and the other five built a blockade to protect themselves from the gas. Then the pair went over it to find help and try to connect pipes for fresh air.

Hanna and McKinney were found 30 feet from the bottom of the main shaft in the longer tunnel. The tunnels lead toward the rich potash deposits used in commercial fertilizer.

state. The higher rate, he also explained, will save the city many thousands of dollars.

Kingston's general tax equalization rate remained at 42 per cent from 1957 to 1959. It was dropped to 35 in 1960 without opposition from the city. The 1961 rate dropped from 35 to 33 despite protest from the city, but in 1962 the city was able to maintain a rate of 33 after an announced tentative rate of 32.

Equalization rates are the ratio between the assessed value of local real property and its actual full value as determined by the state.

Name Wolfe, Knight For Railroad Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) —Railroad management named today its two members of the arbitration board that will rule on the main issues of the long work rules dispute, moving swiftly under the new law that headed off a nationwide strike only hours head of a midnight deadline.

They are J.E. Wolfe of Chicago, chairman of the National Railway Labor Conference and chief negotiator for the carrriers, and Guy W. Knight of Philadelphia, chairman of the Eastern Carriers' Conference on labor matters.

Committee Votes Test Ban, 16-1; Long Dissenter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 16 to 1 today to approve the limited nuclear test ban treaty without any reservation.

It now goes to the Senate for what proponents predict will be overwhelming ratification.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., cast the lone vote against the treaty.

The vote came after the committee beat down two motions to delay action, and another to demand access to all correspondence between Washington and Moscow leading up to and during the negotiation of the pact.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the committee agreed to take the treaty up on the floor of the Senate Monday, Sept. 9.

A formal report wiill be submitted to the Senate Tuesday or Wednesday, embracing U.S. "understandings" and "interpretations" of its meaning, Fulbright said.

This would be designed to eliminate any need for any formal reservation which might require a renegotiation of the pact banning tests in the atmosphere, underwater and in outer space, but not underground.

emphasized that schools have since been relocated.

A new state law now permits variation of regulations in school districts, but before it was adopted, no such authorization was on record.

It has been estimated that some $75,000 would be added to the total transportation cost, in the district, of $325,000, if the requested transportation change is made.

Urges Highland

we wouldn't get the late drinkers from Poughkeepsie."

Alcoholic Beverage Control Law regulations permit Ulster County bars to remain open until 3 a. m., two hours after the legal closing time in Dutchess County.

Gaffney said that the Poughkeepsie paper "featured statements from a mother who did not give her name and relegated the opinion of Dr. Meekins to page 46."

The unidentified mother charged that teenagers "congregate in Main Street every night and make all kinds of noise. If you ask them to stop they just laugh at you."

She said, "Please don't use my name. I'm scared of what they might do."

A "general moral decline" in the Highland community was cited by the Rev. Albert C. May Jr., pastor of the Presbyterian Church, the Rev. William Worley, pastor of the Methodist Church, both of Highland.

Other village residents were quoted in part:

Daniel Canora, operator of the Sugar Bowl Restaurant and former president of the Highland Chamber of Commerce; "There is a problem and something must be done about it. There are simply too many teenagers and drunks on the street at night."

John Taranta, insurance agency operator called for "a complete study . . . to determine the actual number of youngsters who stay out late.

James Vandermark, a Junior-Senior High School pupil, attested to mischief by his contemporaries and said he was "100 per cent" in favor of a curfew. He said, teenagers "speed up and down the streets in cars and block sidewalks so that adults have difficulty in passing . . . Some parents don't seem to have the upper hand any more.

'Plagued by Drunks'

Ignatius "Nat" Gadaleto, operator of market in the village, said he was "plagued by the actions of drunks." He said the alleyway next to his store was littered with beer cans and whiskey bottles. He praised Chief Constable Fred Bragg, adding that Bragg "can't do it (enforce the law) alone." He said there were drag races every Saturday night on Church Street, and "then there are hilarious boys who delight in driving through the streets at 4 a. m., blowing car horns and yelling and screaming. I can't get any sleep."

Gaffney said that Constable Bragg and his deputies have been operating night patrols in the village since May and they "have answered all calls at all hours and places." He said that Sgt. E. E. Winkky, commander of the Highland State Police substation, "has given us excellent cooperation."

The drinking activity involved, Gaffney said, appeared to be centered around the 3 o'clock closing hour of the bars. The bars, he said, "attract to our town those who almost have had their fill in Poughkeepsie and come across the bridge for a last whirl."

Saugerties, by comparison, is an incorporated community, and as such had the legal right to enact a curfew which affected the village but not the town. That Ulster County village thus joined the other upstate villages of Waterford, Little Valley and Batavia in invoking a 10 p. m. curfew on youngsters under 16. Conviction of a violation carries a $25 fine, which presumably would be paid by the parents of the youngsters involved.

Lukewarm to Curfew

Saugerties Police Chief Harold Mills said the curfew has proved effective to date, with no major complaints.

His attitude toward a curfew, Gaffney said, was that "I don't believe that any law which lacks complete public support and as such can't be enforced is any good. I feel that I would rather see a youngster standing in front of a luncheonette than see one hiding in an alleyway late at night to escape a curfew.

He said, "I sincerely hope that a goodly number of citizens will attend the next Town Board meeting on Sept. 11 and give us some constructive criticism or plans.

Check Rubbish Fire

Firemen checked a rubbish fire near 375 Delaware Avenue early today. It damaged a nearby telephone pole. A unit from Cornell Station responded to a call at 12:20 a. m.

Issue Motor License Now At Armory

The Ulster County Motor Vehicle Bureau began issuance of licenses and transaction of other business from its new temporary quarters in the armory on Manor Avenue at 9 a. m. today. Office hours will be from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. until after Labor Day when the usual 5 p. m. closing will be resumed.

County Clerk Lawrence D. Craft reported Wednesday that the office on Main Street would close at the end of the business day and the office would be moved to the temporary location in the armory, opening at 9 o'clock today in quarters which will be used until the new county office building on Main Street is completed.

Temporary Quarters

Other offices in the building at 32 Main Street which will be housed in temporary quarters during the period of construction will be the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, which will be closed Friday during moving operations, and the Ulster County Civil Service Department which will be re-located in the Bull Market Building at 4 Hurley Avenue. Both of these offices will be located on the second floor of the Bull Market Building.

The Welfare Department has been at the former A&P Building on North Front Street for some time and the building at 240 Fair Street which formerly housed the Welfare Department has been razed.

Work on demolishing the old Motor Vehicle Bureau Building at 32 Main Street, will be commenced immediately.

The present county clerk building will continue to be used until the new county office building is completed.

The county treasurer's office, formerly located in the court house, is also located in temporary quarters in the former A&P building on North Front Street.

BPW Authorizes Three Purchases

Purchase of two refuse trucks and a rubber-wheel tractor shovel were approved by the Board of Public Works Tuesday night.

A bid for the refuse trucks by the Albany Avenue Garage, 539 Albany Avenue, calling for the sale of two International Leach Packmaster, pushout, 20 cubic yard Model P-6000 trucks at a price of $16,225 each or at $15,125 each based on a trade-in allowance of $1,000 for each of two trucks now owned by the city.

The other bid submitted was by Raftery's Garage Inc., 183 Foxhall Avenue which asked $17,465.30 on each of two Model 3200 V White Truck with Leach Packmaster refuse bodies or an alternate bid of $15,415.30 per truck, the latter being based on the trade-in value of two city-owned trucks.

The board also, after a study of the comparative specifications of two rubber wheeled tractor shovel models selected the bid submitted by the Ken Smith Machinery Co., Inc., of 1024 Broadway, Albany, which, although $125 more than the bid submitted by the Hudson Valley Equipment Co., Inc., of Saugerties, was found to be a model that would more adequately fill the needs of the city. The bids were $11,273 and $11,148 respectively.

The study, the board said, revealed that the other model did not meet 11 of the specification requirements.

It was also noted that the approved model had the advantage of having all of its essential component parts produced by the manufacturer of the machine.

Says Nuclear Ban Last Hope of Peace

SEATTLE (AP) — The nuclear test ban treaty is the nation's "last hope of any kind of peace," John S. Gleason Jr., veterans administration chief, told Veterans of Foreign Wars at their national convention Wednesday.

"It's a necesssary thing we have to accept," said Gleason. "But we must always watch Russia, be ever watchful and never relax. This (treaty) may not do the job for us, but we can't gamble it won't."

The former American Legion national commander is a member of the President's Committee on Equal Opportunities in Housing.

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sylvanus, Beacon were numbered among the many out of town residents calling in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday.

Also here during the weekend was Robert Schwab Jr., of Bellmore Street, Floral Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lawlor of Hollywood, Fla., who owned and operated the present Giordano store on Route 28 for several years, returned home Tuesday after spending two weeks with Shokan friends. The Lawlors had been visiting relatives in Los Angeles before coming to Shokan.

Mrs. James Bradley, Roxbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lawrence of Kelly Corners were recent callers at the home of Mrs. Arnold Bellows, West Hurley.

Mrs. Richard Addicks of the village center is visiting relatives in High Falls.

Ann Atkins of the Silver Hollow bungalow colony was a caller here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Woloson, Cairo, Greene County, called on Mildred Leone Monday. Woloson is well known in upper Hudson River towns as an authority on antique American clocks.

Awards totaling $519,000 were confirmed recently for land taken by New York City for the Cannonsville Reservoir in neighboring Delaware County. The city reportedly objected in all the cases. Awards apparently ran considerably higher than was the case during Ashokan Reservoir condemnation proceedings, due probably to the big dairy farms taken. Figures like the following are typical: 150-acre farm, $65,000; sawmill and farm, $52,500; former farm used as country home, $42,000, and 49 acres of timber tract, $49,000.

Town of Olive 50 years ago:

Not least among the numerous activities of interest to sightseers (of whom there are today hundreds amongst Freeman readers still living) was the two Lidgerwood cableways in operation high above the Esopus Creek gorge, one upstream and one downstream from the main dam operations. Everyone got quite a 'kick' out of watching the huge bucket-loads of stone and other material, controlled by donkey engines on the banks, traveling their eerie way back and forth all day long. They vied with the Negro 'skinners' from Virgina with their 3-mule dump wagons for the attention of sundry 'side-walk superintendents.

Still another sight to see was the standard-gauge railroad from the Yale quarry to the main dam, and to a connection with the U & D Railroad at Brown's, which was maintained throughout 1913 except when interrupted by flood conditions. That portion of the railroad through the north wing of the main dam was discontinued April 29 and a connection was made around the north side of Winchell Hill (near the present Waldo Smith memorial tower).

Meter Spit Back

COLORADO SPRINGS, (AP) —A woman motorist wrote as follows to the violations bureau: "Enclosed is $1 for attached fine. The parking meter spit out not only the change I tried to insert, but also three other pennies. I guess that makes my total loss 97 cents." Judge Harold Asher ordered the $1 returned to her.

Former Resident Directs Baptist Aid to Catholics

A former Kingston resident is leading Massachusetts Baptists in an ecumenical project of help and good will.

He is the Rev. Dr. Kenneth L. Garrison, director of community witness of the 300-church Massachusetts Baptist Convention and the project is one of sponsoring and relocating Roman Catholic Cuban refugees from the Miami area.

DR. KENNETH L. GARRISON

Massachusetts Baptists have volunteered to find homes and jobs for the refugees. Current plans call for a Flight Good Samaritan of some 50 to 75 Catholics to the Bay State during mid-autumn.

Cardinal Approves

According to an Associated Press release out of Boston, the plan has won the blessing of Richard Cardinal Cushing as well as other Catholic church officials.

Dr. Garrison said he believes the program to be unique in ecumenical fellowship between American Baptists and Catholics.

"We will assume the responsibility for the refugees' initial welfare, including home and job placement as well as related services," he said, "but will not intrude in any way with regard to the religious belief and practice of these newcomers to our shores."

Dr. Garrison explained that the project name is taken from the Biblical parable of the Good Samaritan who helped a wounded Jew and ministered to him without any attempt to trespass upon his faith.

Recently Named to Post

The former local resident assumed the post of director of community witness in Massachusetts earlier this summer having served as president of Harmon Hall School, York Harbor, Me. prior to the appointment. He had served as president of Good Will Homes and School at Hinckley, Me. and was in the ministry 18 years prior to the first school position.

He is the son of F. Leslie Garrison, formerly of 154 Fair Street now a patient at Ulster County Infirmary and the late Mrs. Leita Garrison. A sister, Mrs. Irwin Thomas resides at Sunset Park, Town of Ulster.

Dr. Garrison and his wife, the former Emily M. Rogers of Taylor, Pa., reside at Framingham Center, Mass. Their daughter is a student at Keuka College.

New from Du Pont:
LUCITE®
HOUSE PAINT
Incredibly durable...
so easy to use

Protects like a durable plastic shield...offers incredible durability without the temporary surface shine of oil-base paints. Beautiful low-lustre finish of LUCITE dries to a tough, protective shield against weather extremes.

For special peeling, blistering problems that oil-base paint can't solve, try LUCITE. For blistered part of home, remove old paint down to bare wood, apply Du Pont 49 Primer, then apply LUCITE. See your dealer for details.

Flows on easily over almost any building material...wood, brick, masonry, stucco, cement block. Needs no primer if old paint is in good shape. Goes on over damp surfaces, too. There's no delay from dew or showers.

Dries to touch in half an hour. New LUCITE dries so fast you can apply a second coat, if desired, after an hour. What a time-saver! Fast-drying LUCITE prevents bugs and dust from marring the finished surface.

For LUCITE dealer nearest you, consult the "yellow pages" of your telephone directory

Ever since the 10th century Icelanders have been famous for their literature, first for poetry and later for prose. During many centuries, their literature has been as rich and varied as that of any country of Europe. One memorable contributor to the literature was Hallfred, nicknamed the "Troublesome Poet," and another poet was called "Eyvind the Plagiarist."

Kingston Youth Wins Recognition For Interest in Model Rocketry

Jonathan F. Lown is a slender, wiry-haired 14-year-old Kingston citizen who has earned national recognition for his skill as a model rocket artisan.

Jon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Lown, of 72 Orchard Street, was one of 50 individuals from all over the country selected by the National Association of Rocketry to compete in the Fifth National Model Rocket Championship at Hanscom Field, Bedford, Mass., from August 22 to 25.

The local youth entered 14 of his personally designed and constructed models in the contest. He received a perfect score of 10 points for the flight quality of his Vostok II. a scale representation of the Russian missile.

Twenty first-prizes were awarded to the more than 1,000 models presented in the competition. Jon entered all 14 events and won special mention for his Russian craft in the scale division. The emphasis in that category was on "scale qualities and workmanship rather than achieved altitude."

The Kingston boy's artistry was remarkable in that it not only displayed excellent structural artistry but soared a straight 200 feet into the air besides.

ONE OF MY OTHER HOBBIES—Jonathan Lown re-examines his model ship collection in his room at 72 Orchard Street. It was the ship models that acted as a springboard to model rocketry, he says. Jon was one of 50 contestants in the NAR Model Rocket Championship at Bedford, Mass. August 22-25.

Used Fuel Engines

The rockets used in the contest, which featured some of the world's fastest models speeding as swiftly as 400 miles an hour, were powered by miniature solid-fuel rocket engines. Jon's major display consisted of a specially construed launching pad, a small engine with a fibreboard tube and clay nozzle complete with propellent and smoke-producing charges.

An explosive device harbored in the engine succeeded in blowing off the nose cone after the 200-feet altitude was reached. The model then broke into two pieces, each descending by a connecting parachute.

The annual NAR event, held on the East Coast for the first time this year, was highlighted with an address by Willy Ley, renowned German rocket scientist teaching at Fairleigh Dickinson College. Several U. S. Army Generals, some of them on the 10-man panel of judges, also appeared at the four-day public exhibition.

Jon joined the association in February, 1962. He and the other contestants were selected for competition after they had submitted applications to the organization describing their model rocketry experience. The Kingston boy has 25 top condition works to his credit.

Varied Activities

Young Lown presents an image of almost pure genius. Model rocketry, an interest he developed about a year and a half ago, is only one of his numerous personal projects. He is a polished amateur photographer, a star scout and assistant senior patrol leader of Boy Scout Troop 12, and an animal collector: two rabbits, five guinea pigs and a cat.

He constructs model ships (a miniature Kearsage astronaut pick-up craft lies amidst a score of home-made vessels, figurines and wooden instruments near his window sill in the Orchard Street house), maintains daily morning and evening paper routes and takes flying lessons at Kingston-Ulster Airport in his "spare time."

When he takes a slight relaxation from his demanding activities and his three younger sisters—Jean Marie, 13; Suzanne, 8 and Patricia, 5—are not flocking around big brother, Jon finds time to read everything from Dutton's Nautical Astronomy to Selected Poems of Robert Frost to Popular Mechanics. About five shelves are filled in his own library cabinet.

Dating, he says, takes "too much time and is too expensive."

He will be a sophomore in Kingston High School this year and plans to organize — oddly enough — a model rocket club. He thinks he might go into aerospace industry after receiving a college education.

Rocketry Concerns Him

Right now, however, Jon's main concern is the current situation of model rocketry. He would like more Americans interested in the field to grow out of amateur rocketeering—a derogatory term, he insists— and acquaint themselves with the progress made in safety and performance by model rocket engineers.

"The amateurs still use metallic bodies," Jon says, which increases liability of personal injury and seriously impair rocket flights. The elite model rocket makers, on the other hand, use non-metallic, light weight, recoverable and reflyable material.

Jon alone spends up to 20 and 30 hours building just one rocket. But it's worth the time; he has one item that has already attained an altitude of 3000 feet. He and his neighborhood friends—who often share launching pads, fuses and other equipment— are seriously dedicated to their hobby. True, model rocketry is only a hobby now for Jonathan F. Lown—but who knows what aspect of human progress will catch the imagination of this determined boy in the future?

Dangerous Start

Rail Union Hits Measure Stopping Threat of Strike

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) —Neil P. Speirs, international president of the Switchmen's Union, AFL-CIO, says the compulsory arbitration legislation which averted the railroad strike is the "first step in the erosion of the free collective bargaining system in this country."

Speirs said Wednesday night the law "is a dangerous precedent" which could apply to any industries where the government would decide that a strike could damage the public interest or the nation's economy.

Speirs, who heads the 18,000-member union with headquarters in Buffalo, said key officers had been notified that the strike was cancelled "upon receipt of notification from the railroads that the promulgation of the new rules is nullified."

He said he felt there would be a problem of "finding neutrals to sit on the panel who have not been brainwashed by railroad propaganda," but that "we don't feel we'll be unjustly dealt with."

Not Much Happen To Child Actors When Youth Goes

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What happens to child stars in television series after their options have been dropped?

Are they washed up at 10, 13 or 17? A survey shows they seeem to do all right, although few regain the fame they knew in their series.

Jay North, Dennis the Menace," hasn't acted since the series ended in April. He finished some personal appearance dates then took a Hawaiian holiday this summer.

Lee Aker, once the pal of "Rin Tin Tin," is 19 and an assistant location manager for the "Route 66" company.

Eleanor Donahue, eldest daughter in "Father Knows Best," had a season in "The Andy Griffith Show," then dropped out to have a baby. Eleanor, wife of screen gems official Harry Ackerman, does guest shots in several series.

Johnny Crawford, Chuck Connor's son in "Rifleman," has been appearing in a western film, "Indian Paint."

Lori Martin, the second "National Velvet" girl (Elizabeth Taylor was the first), has been going to school since the series folded. "There isn't much work for a girl my age," laments Lori, now 16.

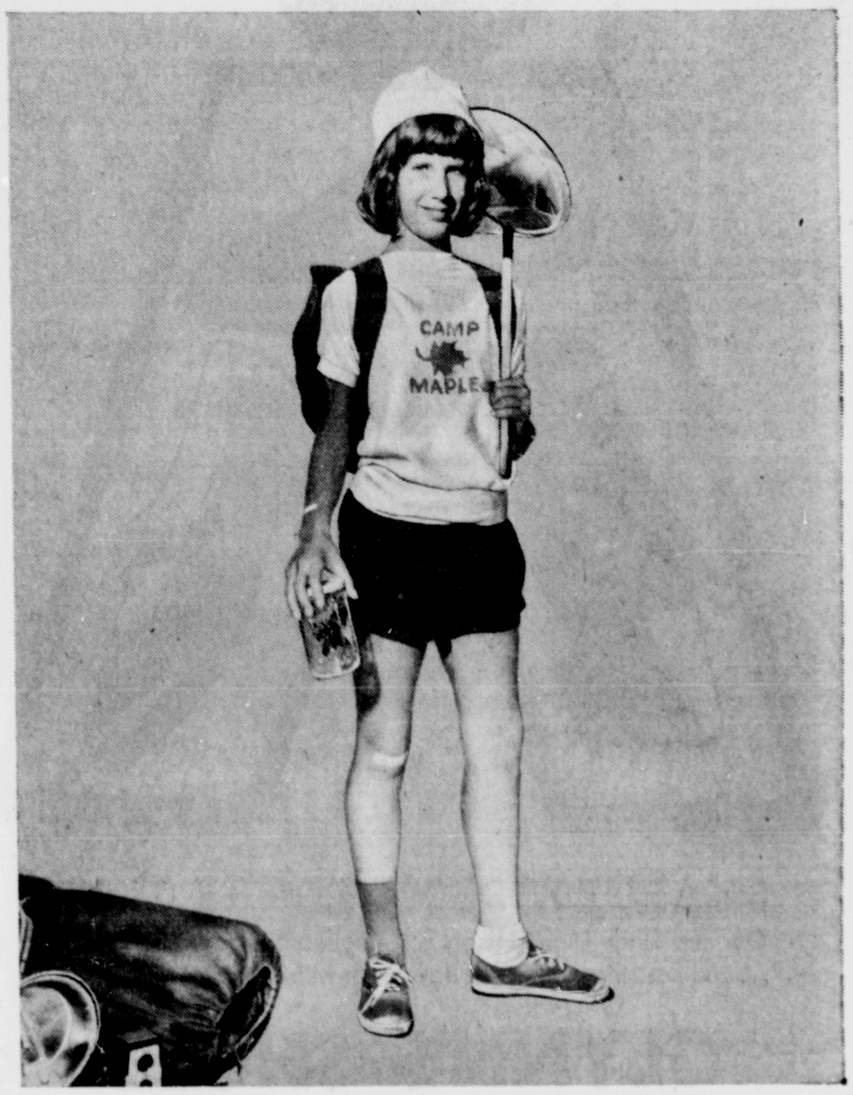

Tony Dow, the older brother of "Leave it to Beaver," has done a "Mr. Novak" and "My Three Sons" and is up for a continuing role in another series.

Jerry Mathers, Beaver himself, has virtually retired at 15.

Sheeley Fabares outgrew the "Donna Reed Show"; the explanation is that she's "Away at college."

Richard Keith, who played young Ricky in the "I Love Lucy" series, is 12 and has had occasional television roles.

Here is news to make you feel your age. Remember Tommy Rettig, first pal of "Lassie?" Now a free-lancer, he's 21 and father of two.

Buffalo Men Try Sales Pitch on Wrong Customers

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A white telephone proved to be a white elephant for two men here.

Chester Wilczynski, 31, and George Parkridge, 44, of Buffalo were fined $25 each Wednesday for attempting to sell a telephone to two police detectives.

Police said the two were asking $1 and two packages of cigarettes for the phone. The New York Telephone Co. values the telephone at $30 and charges an additional $10 for a color other than regulation black.

Wilczynski said he found the phone in his apartment when he moved in. Parkridge gave the sales pitch to the prospective customers who turned out to be detectives, police said.

If you are handy at using a cake decorator or pastry tube, you can use either one for filling celery stalks with cream-cheese or similar mixture.

McKeon Insists On Large-Scale Demo Conclave

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Democratic state chairman is telling local party leaders he will insist upon a full-scale convention for choosing a U.S. Senate nominee next year.

Chairman William H. McKeon says he will oppose any move to have the nomination made by a meeting of the 300-member state committee, although the party has that option.

A convention could mean assembling 2,000 delegates and alternates in a mammoth auditorium, nominating speeches, demonstrations and all the other hoopla of such political ritual.

While he isn't saying so publicly, McKeon evidently is anxious to avoid any of the taint of "bossism" that became attached to the Democratic Party candidate in 1958.

Seven-Hour Meet

That was the year of the famous, seven-hour meeting in a Buffalo hotel room. Carmine G. DeSapio prevailed over Averell Harriman, then governor, and the Senate nomination went to DeSapio's choice, Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan of Manhattan.

Harriman had stated a preference for a man with broad experience in foreign affairs, citing Thomas K. Finletter as filling that description.

But DeSapio, then head of Tammany Hall and a top power in Democratic affairs in the state, wanted Hogan, and Hogan it was.

The Buffalo developments gave the Republican candidates a ready-made issue—bossism.

Kenneth B. Keating, who won the Senate race that year on the Republican ticket headed by Gov. Rockefeller, will be up for re-election in 1964.

Good Forecast

Democrats see favorable portents for their candidate and are weighing several possible choices. Party spokesmen argue that Keating won in 1958 only by riding Rockefeller's coattails. The governor won by 573,000 votes, while Keating's margin was 150,000.

This year, the Democrats say hopefully, their candidate will be on a ticket headed by President Kennedy, who carried the state by 380,000 votes in 1960.

Republicans, on the other hand, don't rule out the possibility of another Rockefeller-Keating slate, with the governor heading it as GOP candidate for president.

Democrats who have been mentioned prominently for the Senate nomination include Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City, Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Amsterdam and, more recently, Harriman.

Ave Figures Too

Harriman has been in the public eye of late as an undersecretary of state in Kennedy's administration and has dropped hints that he might be considering a return to politicis.

No one has made a formal declaration, however. The election is more than 14 months away.

Rifits within the state Democratic organization are still sufficiently pronounced to make it hazardous to predict who will win.

Wagner has been faced with stiff opposition from party factions within New York City, and major conciliation would be necessary before he could count on the united support of his own city's Democratic organization if he sought the nomination.

The extent to which he can command support in New York City in the next year will be an indication of his chances of becoming the candidate. If he remained at odds with the powerful Bronx and Brooklyn leaders, Wagner would be hard put to forge a majority at a convention.

To Name Candidate For Court of Appeals

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Democratic Committee will meet here Sept. 9 to nominate a candidate for Associate judge of the Court of Appeals.

Democratic State Chairman William H. McKeon said Wednesday the meeting would be held at the Hotel Commodore.

The position to be filled is that of Judge Sydney F. Foster, a Republican, who is retiring at the age of 70 as required by state law.

The vote for associate judge will be the only statewide contest in this year's election.

Associate judges receive a salary of $36,500 a year, plus $5,000 for expenses.

School Section Is Closed as Wall Starts Moving

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — A section of a local high school has been closed because of a slight movement of a wall that school officials said was apparently damaged by recent floods.

The Board of Education said Wednesday the wing of McKinley Vocational High School will reopen when the board is assured of its safety. Some 600 students attend the school.

The wing housed the cafeteria and a machine shop. School officials said classes would continue in the rest of the building.

The high school is located in an area that was severely damaged by flood water Aug. 7. City officials estimated flood damage at $35 million.

Onteora Central Schools to Open On September 5

The Onteora Central Schools will open the 1963-64 school year on Thursay, September 5, with full day sessions in grade 6 and in grades 7 through 12. Kindergartens and grades 1 through 5 will attend school in half-day sessions. The opening of new elementary facilities, scheduled for completion in September, 1964, will provide classes for full day sessions for all elementary children during the 1964-65 school year. Enrollment for the coming year is expected to be about 2500 compared with 2360 last September.

Elementary grade clases will be held in the Bennett building at Boiceville, the Woodstock Elementary School, and the West Hurley Elementary School. Additional elementary classes will meet in the following emergency classrooms which will be abandoned as soon as new buildings are completed: West Hurley Fire Hall, Ashokan American Legion Building, Mt. Tremper Community Center, and the Phoenicia Parish Hall. Nine half-day sessions will be operating in five rooms in these emergency buildings.

Grades 7-12 will begin classes on full day schedules with about 1000 pupils occupying space for 900 pupils. Preliminary planning is underway to provide an addition of classroom facilities to the Central building. High school construction will require a period of about two years so it will be necessary to make an early decision regarding a bond proposal to avoid undue overcrowding at that level. Some emergency measures for grades 7-12 will be necessary beginning with the 1964-65 school year.

Time Schedules

Six separate time schedules will be in operation during the 1963-64 school year. Pupils in grades 7 through 12 will be in school from 8:30 a. m. to 3:32 p. m. Sixth grade pupils will attend from 9:00 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. Grades 1 through 5 will be in school from 8:00 a. m. to 12:00 noon or from 1:00 p. m. to 3:30 p. m.

Auxiliary Works On Many Items

Initial steps of a mobilization plan and the possibility of a covered-dish supper and a bus trip to New York were on the agenda of the regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Co. No. 3, held at the firehouse in Lake Hill Tuesday evening.

According to a spokesman for the Auxiliary, the need for a mobilization plan to aquaint firemen with the presence of an emergency is essential due in part to many of the firemen being unable to hear the firehouse siren when it sounds. Tuesday evening's meeting featured a sketch of a mobilization plan whereby members of the Ladies' Auxiliary would be able to notify firemen by telephone in case of emergency. Each Auxiliary member would have certain firemen to call in addition to another Auxiliary member who in turn would follow the same pattern of calls. A testing of this plan may be accomplished when the final layout is completed, said a spokesman.

General Get-Together

The covered-dish supper, it was explained, would not be a "money-making proposition," but rather a general get-together of the families of active firemen and active members of the Auxiliary for a "good fellowship supper" at the firehouse. It was stressed that plans for this event are strictly in the preliminary stage, with further action dependent upon fire department approval.

The possibility of a bus trip to New York prior to the Christmas season was also discussed and referred to a committee for further information.

The August 27 meeting was the first meeting of the "new year" for the Auxiliary, following election of officers at the July annual meeting. It was announced that dues for the organization were now due, both for active and supporting members. Any woman interested in the welfare of Woodstock Fire Co. No. 3, serving the Willow-Lake Hill-Shady area, is invited to join the Ladies Auxiliary which meets monthly at the firehouse in Lake Hill.

Language Laboratory At Hudson High

Superintendent of Hudson Schools Roderick E. Ayer announced Wednesday that a language laboratory will be installed at the high school in that city for the coming school year.

He noted that the electronic classroom will be used primarily for instruction in modern languages, and that tape recorded lesson may be directed by the teacher using a master console to an individual student or group of students, who will have individual head sets and microphones.

Marbletown Demo Meet

John Parete, chairman of the Marbletown Democratic Committee, has announced Wednesday, Sept. 1 as the date of the party convention at the Stone Ridge Town Hall for selection of candidates on the Democratic ticket in the coming election.

One-Day Performance

Determination of Negro Stressed by Rev. King

By JAMES MARLOW
Asssociated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The discipline and tranquility of Wednesday's civil rights demonstration will not be the permanent condition of the American Negro if he continues to be frustrated.

As they marched and stood in the sun for hours the massive quietude of perhaps 180,000 Negroes was amazing, when it is remembered how much in American life has been denied them.

But this performance was for one day only.

The warning of brief quietude, if white Americans continue to deprive Negroes of equal treatment, came from the one Negro who above all has preached nonviolent resistance, Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

He said:

"'It would be fatal for the nation to overloook the urgency of the moment and to underestimate the determination of the Negro.'"

All but one of the speakers in this gigantic petition for "redress of grievances" talked with restraint about the desire for equal justice and the Negroes' hope that Congress will help them get it.

Lewis Was Exception

The exception was John Lewis, the militant head of the Student Non-violent Coordinating Committee.

He revealed the bitter impatience just below the surface in himself and others with these words:

"This nation is still a place of cheap political leaders who build their careers on immoral compromise and ally themselves with open forms of political, economic and social exploitation.

"'What political leader can stand up and say 'my party is the party of principle'? The party of Kennedy is also the party of Eastland. The party of Javits is also the party of Goldwater. Where is our party?'"

It is now 95 years and one month since adoption of the 14th Amendment made the Negroes citizens beyond question and guaranteed them protection from any violation of their rights as citizens.

Their rights have been violated ever since.

King, lest white people assume that because the Negro has endured this until now he is a permanent patsy and Wednesday's peaceful demonstration proved it, told both the crowd and the nation:

"'Those who hope the Negro needed to blow off steam and will now be content will have a rude awakening if the nation returns to businesss as usual.

"There will be neither rest nor tranquility in America until the Negro is granted his citizenship rights. The whirlwinds of revolt will continue to shake the foundations of our nation until the bright day of justice emerges."

Gives Clear Warning

He could not have given a clearer warning of turmoil unless the wrongs are righted. Not all Negroes have accepted King's philosophy of nonviolent resistance to injustice or evil.

They have shown they don't by some of their violent outbursts since he first began to use nonviolent resistance, and successfullly, with his peaceful boycott of the Montgomery, Ala., buses in 1955-56.

Only a comparative few at any time have accepted this philosophy from a leader. To believe it requires complete conviction it is the only right means to seek justice.

Millions of Indians practiiced nonviolent resistance under the guidance of Mohandas Gandhi without believing it, as their later violence showed. But even Gandhi himself hadn't always practiciedit.

In India in his time it just happened to be a necessary technique of resistance to the British when the British had superior power. When the Indians got their independence thousands of Hindus and Moslems slaughtered one another.

In this country racial violence was increasing until the time for Wednesday's civil rights march drew near. Then the violence disappeared as if to let the march dominate the scene. It's over now.

But the discriminations against Negroes are not over. Their determination to batter down the discriminations, as King pointed out, are not over. Therefore more violence can be expected, perhaps on an increasing scale.

BY OSWALD JACOBY

If South had been the dealer, he would probably have reached his four spade contract without any adverse, bidding and he almost surely would have tried the heart finesse and gone down.

Fortunately for South he was second hand. He reached four spades, but there had been an opening diamond bid by East. South won the first diamond and his analysis of the lead was low from four to the jack. A review of the bidding marked East with the king of hearts as part of his opening bid, so South was certain that the heart finesse would not work.

Then how was he going to make the hand? One way would be to take the heart finesse anyway and then hope to break the hearts 3-3 so as to set up two heart tricks in dummy, but South saw a better way. He assumed that trumps would break 4-2 and in that case he didn't really care if hearts broke 3-3 or 4-2 as long as East held the king.

He won the diamond lead, led his eight of hearts and let it ride. East won with the ten and cashed one diamond before leading the king of clubs.

South won that trick with the ace and led a heart to dummy's ace. East dropped the king whereupon South ruffed a low heart in his hand and drew trumps stopping in dummy. Then he discarded two clubs on dummy's last two hearts and conceded one club trick at the finish.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Beatniks are out. But every shaving man is a target in the battle of the chins. All of the big U.S. razor blade makers are now in the stainless steel fracas started more than a year ago by a British invader.

The long lasting blade has been relatively scarce and regarded by some of its users as a status symbol.

Keen U.S. Struggle

The stainless steel blades and their older brothers made of carbon steel are now likely to be engaged in more of an economic battle. The struggle will be keenest between the competitive American makes. And the victory may go to performance, or to retaili price, or to cost of production and distribution — or to the willingness of the American male to change his ways.

The giant provider of the older and familiar razor blade, the Gillette Company, with about 70 per cent of the American market, says it will enter the stainless steel blade contest in New York and Philadelphia next week and across the nation by October. Merchandising the new multiple shave item since February are Schick (subsidiary of Eversharp) and American Razor (Division of Philip Morris).

Starting the whole thing on this side of the Atlantic was a British sword maker. Blades made by Wilkinson Sword Ltd., a hit in England, were first imported in March 1962 and sold by American outlets for its better known products, garden tools. Advertised by word of mouth, they caught on fast and were hard to find.

But American production methods may soon make them commonplace.

Performance ultimately will be judged by the American males, each one doubtless convinced that his own chin is a special and peculiar problem.

Production Costs Secret

Price differentials, at least at the start of the contest, are these: Wilkinson's usually sell at five for 75 cents or 15 cents a blade. Schick's and American razor's Personna double-edged blades are regularly priced at five for 79 cents. Gillette says it will retail its stainless steel blades at six for 89 cents, making them the cheapest at 14.83 cents a blade. The older, carbon steel, double-edged blades range from 3.5 cents to 6.9 cents a blade.

Production costs are the secrets of the competing companies, but the stainless steel blades are more difficult and more expensive to make. The American firms already had been making stainless steel blades in the mills of their European subsidiaries. Their new or converted American plants are reported capable of turning out many times the number of blades that Wilkinson has been allotting to its American market.

Thruway Income Up

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The State Thruway Authority reported Wednesday that income for the first six months of this year totaled a record $28,192,357, an increase of 7.92 per cent over that of the first half of 1962.

The Authority said that vehicles had travelled a total of 1,142,081,302 miles on the 559-mile superhighway in the first half of this year, an increase of 5.5 per cent over the number in the corresponding period last year.

Frederic Bruhn Gets Student Fellowship For Years Research

Frederic W. Bruhn of 35 Jefferson Avenue, Kingston, is one of nine medical students at the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry who have been named student fellows for the 1963-64 academic year. Under the fellowship program he will spend a year in research activities in the Department of Pathology at the University of Rochester Medical Center.

The Rochester Medical School's student fellowship program is one of the country's oldest continuing research fellowship plans for medical students. Established by Nobel Laureate Dr. George Whipple, first dean of the University's Medical School and now professor emeritus of pathology, it has served as a model for similar undertakings at many leading medical schools.

The program is designed to provide medical students interested in research and teaching with opportunity to devote themselves for a full year to such projects. Student fellows resume their regular medical studies at the conclusion of their fellowship year.

Happy Tours State Exposition; Shows Campaign Qualities

By JOY MILLER
Associated Press Women's Editor

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller can stop worrying about his bride as a campaigner.

Since their marriage in May, he has almost always been at her side in public, quietly coaching her on the various chores that befall a state's first lady: What important persons to be sure to greet, how to snip a ribbbon to open a fair, what to say to the press.

Today's "Governor's Day" tour of the New York State Exposition, possibly shows the governor that he not only has an apt pupil but a potential rival as a crowd pleaser in Margaretta ("Happy") Rockefeller.

His slim, dark-blonde wife got in some practice Wednesday when she was guest of honor at the Exposition's Women's Day activities. She spent almost five hours under constant gaze, some approving, some appraising, some hostile.

It was probably her longest public outing without the governor—and she retired with honors.

As usual, Mrs. Rockefeller was far more casually dressed than the women greeting her or attending the luncheon given by the women's division of the exposition.

Hatless, she wore a scoop-backed dresss of turquoise slubbed silk with a black belt, a two-strand pearl necklace, low-heeled black shoes. She carried short white gloves and the dress' matching jacket which she never put on.

Many an exposition visitor didn't recognize the tanned young woman in what looked like a simple sun dress, striding along with a few photographers and stylish matrons.

"Who was that? One of the queens?" one visitor asked a straggler in the Rockefeller party as it passed.

The exposition has about 30 pretty young women of sudden Royalty ranging from an apple-growing queen to an Indian princess.

Told that it was Mrs. Rockefeller, the woman cried incredulously: "you mean 'Happy'? but she was so ordinary, you know natural. Wait a minute! I've got to get another look."

Reaction from most people was favorable — "'Very attractive." "'absolutely charming" — "'so friendly."

But now and then came the kind of comment that some politicians fear may damage Rockefeller's chances for the Republican presidential nomination—comment that referred to the fact that both the governor and Mrs. Rockefeller, mother of four, had been divorced before their marriage.

As one sweet-faced, white-haired little lady muttered through lips pulled in a thin line: "I don't want to say what I think of her, but she does look like her pictures."

At the luncheon attended by 470 people Mrs. Rockefeller presented trophies, checks, cash money and certificates to community service award winners.

Later, she toured the building to see the exhibits.

She picked up a small carved wooden rhinoceros "'for Nelson." and for her children she picked up a stuffed cloth ball, a toy girafffe and an alice-in-wonderland white rabbit.

But Mrs. Rockefeller's biggest chuckle came when one small autograph hunter, a boy of 8, identified himself as Robert Kennedy from Cuba, N.Y.

For Better Grades

What You Need to Study

By The Reading Laboratory
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Association

Before we start talking about the best ways to handle textbooks and tests, there's just one more item we have to cover—the materials you need for effective study.

The notebook is the most important piece of equipment you need as a student. This might sound a little elementary, but too many students get into course difficulty because they don't keep them in the right way—or don't keep notebooks at all.

Get yourself a notebook for each course, preferably the kind with the coiled wire binding; they lie flat for easy reading and writing and the pages are easily removable.

Above all, keep the notebook clean. When you take notes in class, take them quickly but take them as neatly as possible—unless you plan to recopy them. There's no more pitiable sight than the student who has taken ultra-complete class notes only to find when it comes time to study he can't read them.

If you're a doodler (and who isn't?), get into the habit of carrying a doodle book with you. Just get an extra notebook, bring it to class, and if the work that day is such that you don't have to take notes, then doodle in your doodle book. Again, this might sound elementary, but there's nothing more unpleasant than studying from a scribbled notebook. Whenever you're seized with an uncontrollable urge to doodle, have your doodle book handy; it'll save a lot of notebooks.

After you buy a doodle book, save up some more and invest in a vocabulary notebook. Whenever you run across a new word, write it down. Then once a week you can look up all of the week's new words in the dictionary. And after you look them up, use them. You'll impress all of your friends — and teachers — if you keep a good vocabulary notebook.

Remember a few chapters back when we talked about all of the outside reading that you're going to do? Sure you do. You're reading a nonrequired book and one of the better magazines for at least 15 minutes a day. Right? Well, if you're really enterprising you might also get a notebook for all of the new ideas you're getting from that outside reading.

Finally, if you're in a spending mood, a set of 3x5 flash cards can be a great help for learning foreign language vocabulary. Write down the new word on one side of the card, its English equivalent on the other.

We'll talk more about note-taking later. For now, just remember that a textbook has a lot of pages. If you can start to keep most of what you have to know in notebooks, you can save a lot of reading at the end of each term.

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven anti-bias demonstrators arrested at Gov. Rockefeller's office Aug. 1 for blocking the entrance were convicted today. The technical charge was intrusion on real property.

Five also were convicted of resisting arrest.

They were to be sentenced later today in Criminal Court.

Rockefeller, in a rare appearance of a governor as a trial witness, had testified that he authorized the arrests.

Wagaman New Head Of Pa. Commissioners

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Lancaster County Commissioner Herbert Wagaman is the new head of the Pennsylvania Association of County Commissioners.

Wagaman was elected president Wednesday in concluding sessions of the group's annual meeting in Pittsburgh. He succeeds Peter Yonavick, Berks County commissioner.

Other new officers were Blain Mead of Warren County, first vice president; W. Fred Kohler Jr. of Northumberland County, second vice president; and James A. Green of Butler County, secretary-treasurer.

Delegates also voted to allocate funds for a full-time legislative representative in Harrisburg.

Olive Reunion On Labor Day

Labor Day will be an eventful and joyous one for neighbors in the Town of Olive and former residents who will assemble to renew old friendships at a reunion at Friedberg's, originally Lambert's Grove.

Directing the event is an association formed by persons whose homes were acquired 50 years ago to make way for the Ashokan Reservoir, a major part of the New York City water supply system.

A half century ago at the turn of ownership of the land in the reservoir area, residents were upset over the loss of their homesteads, but decided to form an association to retain old friendships.

Each year the former Lambert's Grove has been the scene of the annual picnic for present and former residents of the township. The scene of the reunion is located on an elevation off Route 28A, not far from its intersection with Route 28 known as the Onteora Trail.

Pratt Boice, president of the Ulster County Savings Institution, will be master of ceremonies. Herbert Wells of West Shokan is the incumbent president of the association.

Elwyn C. Davis, known as "the squire" of West Shokan, has served as the association's secretary-treasurer for the last 40 years. He has invited "all town of Olive residents, all old Ulster County residents, all new residents of the county and all who would like to become residents and visitors."

Those planning to attend the all-day event may bring their own picnic lunches or purchase food that will be made available by the Shokan Men's Club.

Fifty years ago seven villages with a combined population of about 2,000 persons were acquired by the City of New York and property was converted into the reservoir, which extends some 12 miles and has a water surface of 8,180 acres.

On Sept. 9, 1913, first storage of water began in the reservoir and a little more than two years later first water started to flow into the water mains of New York City water supply.

It was reported the entire project, including land acquisition and construction cost the city of New York about $31,563,857.

Social Patterns Needed Declare Church Leaders

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Church leaders say a need exists today for a "new pattern of partnership between men and women."

"We are beset by the conflicting ideologies of masculine paternalism and aggressive feminism," said a report by the Division of Ecumencial Action of the World Council of Churches.

In plain words, that means the male's impulse to rule the roost, and the woman's drive to outdo him and run the whole show herself, by will or wiles.

Both urges are blighting modern relationships between the sexes, and have to go if real teamwork is to be achieved, the study maintained. It said:

"Our world is seeking a new declaration and demonstration of the interdependence of men and women through which life can be sustained, enriched and fulfilled."

Presented by Dr. Kathern Bliss, of Sussex, England, chairman of the division, to the Council's Central Committee meeting here, the report called for social patterns and legilation expresssing the "equality of men and women."

It said "walls of separation are broken down in Christ."

From the first creation of men and women, as recorded in Genesis 1:27-29 and Genesis 2:18-24, they were made for "partnership and mutual love and shared dominion over all creatures," the report said.

In calling for standards of equality, it said this didn't mean that men or women should assume roles "alien to their natures and culture."

Other reports came from a half dozen departments, commissions and agencies.

The councili includes most major Protestant, Anglican and orthdox denominations around the globe.

A flurry of debate arose Wednesday after an adddress by Dr. Klaus Von Bismarck, of Cologne, West Germany. He said churches both in the west and the communist east sometimes confuse the gospel with state ideologies.

Churchmen from Communist countries challenged this. "The church cannot adopt Communist ideology,'" insisted Bishop Tibor Bartha, of Debrecen, Hungary.

ENJOY THE PARTY AS LONG AS YOU LIKE

Q: My husband and I went to a cocktail party. The hours were from five to seven o'clock. We arrived soon after five, intending to stay about a half hour. Unexpectedly, I met many people there that I hadn't seen for a long time and at six o'clock when my husband suggested leaving I persuaded him to stay. Consequently, we didn't leave until seven o'clock. He has been reminding me ever since that at a party of this type guests are supposed to stay a short while and leave and they are not expected to stay the entire time. I think one may stay as long as one pleases. What is your opinion?

A: Guests at a cocktail party seldom stay the entire time but as you were enjoying yourself there was nothing wrong in staying on as you did.

Wedding Present for Unknown Bride

Q: Our boss is going to be married shortly and we, his employes, are buying him a wedding present. It is to be a piece of silver for their house. The bride is unknown to any of us and lives out of town. Should we send this from the store direct to her, or give it to him at the office?

A: You should have the store send the gift to the bride. Not only is this correct, but if you were to give it to your employer at the office, he would have the bother of sending it to the bride's house himself.

Whose Hand Is Offered First?

Q: I am in doubt about the following question and would appreciate your answering it for me. When a man and woman are introduced, who should be the one to offer their hand first—the man or the woman.

A: The woman offers her hand first but should the man offer his first, she, of course, takes it.

Stays Butts' Judgment

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal judge stayed execution of a $3.06 million libel judgment for Wally Butts today pending motions for a new trial and a judgment for Curtis Publishing Co.

U.S. Districit Judge Lewis R. Morgan issued the stay and in his order indicated the publishing firm would file its motion by Friday.

Attorneys for Curtis had not indicated earlier what legal route they would pursue after a Federal Court jury awarded Butts the verdict because of a Saturday Evening Post article which charged him with fixing a football game.

Three Pitchers Combine for Win In Dietz Game

Saugerties Dutchmen, repeater champions in the Catskill Mountain League came to town last night to meet the Mid-Atlantic League Kingston Braves and quickly discovered they were in another league.

The Braves blanked their ancient foes, 12 to 0, and three Kingston twirlers collaborated in heaping indignities on the village tossers.

Gary Brown, ex-Poughkeepsie High star, was credited with the Kingston victory. He worked four shutout innings, fanning eight and walking only one. Paul Gardner added a pair of runless innings and Wayne Johnson tossed the last three. Gardner fanned two and Johnson six for a combined total of 16 Saugerties whiffs. They allowed seven hits among them.

Collect Eight Hits

Braves collected only eight hits off Keith Mills, a Frisco Giants signee, and John Nolan, who is headed for the Milwaukee Braves farm system. But three errors and 13 walks, eight by Nolan, made the job easy for the Braves. They wrecked a fairly respectable 5-0 game with a seven-run explosion in the bottom of the eighth. Mills was charged with the loss. When he wasn't walking batters, Nolan was effective with 10 strikeouts.

Lynn Johnson, Rickie Broberg and Paul Natale knocked in single tallies in the third, fourth and fifth innings to send the locals ahead, 5-0. Nolan was bombed in the eighth inning when Dick Bartsch's bases-loaded single was the key blow.

Rich Jansen slugged a single and double for Kingston. Despite the 12-run total, Jansen's double was the only extra baser in the contest.

Manager Dick Bartsch's tossers are scheduled to play in the second round of the Schenectady Park tournament this weekend.

Best time of year to improve a lawn is when most people don't

Everyone likes to get out and work on the lawn in Spring. But early Fall is the time when you get the biggest return for your time and money. Early Fall is the time when TURF BUILDER fertilizing promotes tillering (production of side shoots that thickens the lawn and repairs summer's ravages).

TURF BUILDER has what the grass needs — protein-building nutrition that gives the lawn a richer color not matched by any other method. The process is patented, the results guaranteed. And today is the day to put it to work on your lawn. You'll enjoy what happens.

Bowling Flemings Back After 11 Years

Husband-Wife Tenpin Team Is At Bowlerama

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Just a little more than 11 years after leaving Kingston, George and Dot Flemings have returned — still retaining their skill with a bowling ball and with many memories of the quick advance of the tenpin sport in the southlands.

The Flemings have joined the promotional staff of John Ferraro's Bowlerama and Mid-City Lanes, having started their new positions about a week ago. After their score and one year away from the city, "it's just great to be back," is the way Mrs. Flemings described their feelings.

Since moving down south back in the early 1950s, the bowling Flemings have been in Palm Beach County, Florida and Winston Salem, North Carolina. The Winston Salem position was in between the jobs in Palm Beach County, where another former Kingstonian — Martin Kellenberger—is now the sheriff.

Southern Boom

They recalled to this reporter the many advances made in bowling by the southern people. "When we went to Palm Beach County, there were just two bowling establishments and they were on the ancient side," Mrs. Flemings said

She said that in recent times, there have been four new houses built and each one is better than the other. Mrs. Flemings described a recent establishment built in Brower County, Florida, which has 60 lanes, no front doors and just about everything you want, including the newest innovations.

Outstanding keglers when they left the city, they are returning the same way. George bowled in only one league last year and finished with a gaudy average of 207. Dot rolled in three leagues and her high mark was 190.

She became a member of the world wide AMF staff nine years ago and said that Ben Booke of Binghamton, now well known in Florida, had much to do with her obtaining the position.

Though she didn't say so, it is a fact that Mrs. Flemings is one of the best bowling instructors in the country. Her work in Florida included teaching the sport to crippled and blind persons.

Six Games 275

Among her bowling accomplishments are a total of six games of 275 or better, making her a member of the "275" club. Only women who have had five or more games of 275 are eligible for admittance.

Included in those games is a 299 effort. "That one really hurt. The 10 pin wobbled on the last ball and then stood up. I took the pin home and threw it into the fireplace," she said. She has yet to hit a 700 series, missing by one pin.

George has rolled several 700 series and he also has a 299 game, socked in Kingston. He left the eight pin standing.

Their memories of bowling here are very clear. George was a member of Rapp's Furniture Express team, which slammed a 3414 triple. He was the leadoff kegler and had a 641 that evening.

Mrs. Flemings was on the famed Kaye Sportwair five which won 12 straight matches against the best distaff keglers in the country. Rose Schatzel, who bowled many times with Dot, was also a member of that team.

Bowlers Are Better

When asked about the difference in bowlers here today than 11 years ago, George readily admitted that there are many more good bowlers in this city now. "The caliber of bowling in Kingston is much higher than it is in Miami and that city is much larger than this one," he said.

Mrs. Flemings said part of their promotions work at the Bowlerama and Mid-City Lanes will be to try and build up daytime bowling, especially for the women. "We are going to try to get the ladies out of the kitchen and into the bowling alleys," she added.

She will use her teaching experience to conduct clinics on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week. Featured will be a day nursery for the kiddies as well as coffee and doughnuts for the bowlers. It is hoped that morning and afternoon leagues will be formed.

Another idea of the couple is the possible formation of an Old Timer's League on Saturday afternoons. "There are several of the former bowlers who are no longer participating in the sport and we'd like to have them back," they added.

"The only thing we need now that we've returned is a place to live. We have everything in storage and would like to get it out, just as soon as we can find something," Mrs. Flemings said.

After their absence of 11 years, they are elated over the return to Kingston and are hoping to say hello to as many of their old friends as possible. "Just drop around and we'll be there," they concluded.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Kirkland, Wash., won the Connie Mack World Series Baseball championship Wednesday night with a 6-5 victory over Chicago.

Sangi Memorial Classic Formed

A 10-team major league to be known as the Sangi Memorial Classic league has been organized at Sangi's Bowlero and will start play on Monday, Sept. 9 at 9 p. m. The league is a memorial to the late John S. Sangi, proprietor, who died in 1962.

Fifty of the top bowlers in the Kingston area will compete in the league which is restricted to bowlers with average of 181 or better. Chris Gallo is the highest average entry with 208.

Sangi's Bowlero has also announced its entry for the 1963-64 Hudson Valley Travelling League. Members of the team are Harold Broskie, Dick Howard, Tom Carlino, Mike Rienzo and Vince Carpino. Jerry Kaplan will be the sixth man.

Valley Bridge Tourney Set for Here Sept. 6-8

Twenty-two of the top ranking players of the Capitol District have already indicated to Laddie Wheatcroft, tournament chairman, that they will play in the Hudson Valley Contract Bridge Sectional Tournament to be held at the Kingston Stuyvesant Hotel on September 6, 7 and 8.

"Never have I seen such interest in a tournament in my more than 10 years of directing tournaments in the Hudson Valley," Wheatcroft said this week.

The tournament will get under way Friday afternoon, September 6, with the individual championship competition. That same evening, the Mixed Pair Championship will take place and Wheatcroft said he anticipates an entry of some 120 players in this event from the Hudson Valley, Capitol District, Connecticut and New Jersey.

The Open Pair Championship will be played in two sessions on Saturday, September 7. For this event, the tournament chairman said there will undoubtedly be an entry of 180 to 200 players.

The tournament will conclude Sunday, September 8, with Women's Pair Championship and Men's Pair Championship Sunday afternoon. That evening the tournament competition will climax with the big event of the Team of Four Campionship.

Parking stickers are being issued to all visiting players to take care of parking fees while the tournament is in session.

Those desiring information about any event or elegibility for the tournament events may obtain same by contacting I. H. Wheatcroft.

Doubt March

aroused the conscience of the nation."

There was some conflict not visible to the crowds at the Lincoln Memorial.

A demonstration leader, John Lewis, told a newsman later that he was forced to rewrite his speech because the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Roman Catholic archbishop of Washington, had objected to it.

Lewis, 23, a Negro, is chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, one of the youngest and most militant of the civil rights organizations.

Considered Revolutionary

Lewis said Archbishop O'Boyle, who delivered the invocation, had told march leaders he would not appear on the same platform with Lewis if his prepared speech was delivered as written. Leis said the prelate considered the speech revolutionary.

Lewis said a meeting was called of the civil rights leaders, and he was forced to give in. When he gave his speech, he left out such comments as:

"We cannot depend on any political party, for both the Democrats and the Republicans have betrayed the basic principles of the Declaration of Independence."

But the crowds did not know this, and they cheered and applauded the words of Lewis. But they reserved their greatest applause for King, the chairman of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

King Draws Cheers

One supporter shouted out "the next president of the United States" as King began to speak.

The Negro leader, 34, drew loud cheers when he pointed to the 20,000 or so white sympathizers in the crowd and said, "Many of our white brothers have come to realize that their destiny is tied up with our destiny and their freedom is inextricably bound to our freedom."

One of the aims of the demonstrators was to convince Congress to pass President Kennedy's civil rights bill soon. When several sympathetic congressmen were introduced, demonstrators chanted at them: "Pass the bill. Pass the bill. Pass the bill."

But there was no evidence that Congress would respond quickly to this demand. Although some legislators like Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said the demonstration would help pass the bill, others said it would not affect passage one way or another.

And the House Judiciary Committee, with so many members taking off for their Labor Day weekend, decided to postpone consideration of the bill until Sept. 9.

$20 Taken Frm Home, His Car Also Goes

Theft of some $20 in cash from his home and of his automobile were reported early today by Roscoe Scott, 182 Third Avenue.

The car theft was reported at 5:35 a. m., and shortly after that Officers Frank Kennelly and Charles Diers found it abandoned on Jansen Avenue near Foxhall.

Police said the money was reported taken from a cigar box and dresser drawer in the home of Scott, who works during the night. No evidence of forced entrance was found.

Retirement Assistance

A representative of the Railroad Retirement Board will be at the United States Post Office, Main Building, 496 Broadway, Room 3, Wednesday, September 11, from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. He will assist the railroad worker, his wife, widow or survivors in retirement and survivor problems and answer any inquiries which they may have in connection with the Railroad Retirement and Unemployment Insurance Acts.

Tree Fire in Modena

Sparks from fire in a large tree off Route 32, Station Road, Modena, Wednesday night threatened a cider mill and firemen were dispatched to the scene in command of Chief Eldrid Smith. It was reported that sparks fell on the roof of the mill and went through windows. The fire apparently started in the tree from burning trash. The alarm was sounded shortly before 9:25 p. m.

Paltz Endorses

the New Paltz chamber Majestic said, "I wish other organizations would do likewise, including the Farm Bureau, Granges and taxpayers organizations.

"I think it is a fine site, not only for the county fair but for other events that would attract people to the area," he added. The property is located on Albany Post Road in the Town of New Paltz, and Majestic said it was the original site considered for the State University College.

Supervisor Majestic said in his opinion a permanent museum for the display of historical papers and other items could be developed on the New Paltz site.

The New Paltz Chamber voted to send a letter to the Board of Supervisors requesting the change. The organization noted that the proposed site would draw spectators from Orange Sullivan and other counties, and pointed out the property is large enough to allow for installation of recreational facilities, and provide more room for merchants and organizations to display their exhibits and erect permanent buildings and booths.

A summer theater "to promote cultural activities in the county" could also be included, the Chamber said, and the fairgrounds could "also be a center for civic functions such as Boy and Girl Scout programs and camporees, sportsmen's gatherings and firemanic activities such as training courses and conventions."

The New Paltz Chamber also noted that dignitaries tend to visit the larger fairs while bypassing the Ulster County Fair. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller attended the Dutchess County Fair this year and the Orange County Fair last year, it was noted.

The site advocated is a part of the grounds of the Ulster County Home in New Paltz.

Drivers Pay $20

Michael Douglas, 18, of 434 Washington Avenue, charged with speeding, was fined $15 in city court today. James Lawrence, 65, of 44 Ponckhockie Street, charged with driving an uninspected vehicle, paid $5.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market celebrated the averting of a railroad strike by making further gains today in heavy trading.

Although the market's sharp rally Wednesday was based on conviction that Congress would forestall the renewed strike threat, there was still plenty of steam left on the buying side—even though Wall Street, it's said, "never discounts the same thing twice."

As the session wore on, however, traders began to take profits on their recent gains.

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

6 Members Resign

the Municipal Parking Field and the vacant lot on Partition Street "which was converted from an eye-sore into a small park."

Dr. Messina added that "these endeavors which were started during Mayor Holmes' tenure of office were continued with unabated effort and in a spirit of complete cooperation with the present administration on the part of each and every member of the Planning Board.

"The decision by the Village Board of Trustees to ignore the recommendation of the Saugerties Planning Board for appointment to the Ulster County Planning Board, and more specifically, failing to appoint any member of the Village Planning Board to this position appears to completely negate the necessity of a Planning Board in Saugerties."

Not Consulted

In his letter to Mayor William Ziegler, Aaron recalled that since the inauguration of the present administration "several matters have occurred where in the normal conduct of Village business, the Planning Board should have been consulted. This the Village Board has failed to do.

"In-as-much as the Planning Board is not permitted to function for the good and welfare of the community, I see no reason for my continuing as a member of the Board."

Mrs. Gavigan defended the Planning Board's decision by presenting her concept of the organizations function. In announcing her resignation she said that "at a meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors in July of this year, it was resolved a County Planning Board be established.

Matter of Duty

"While creation of the County Planning Board and its final appointments of members is a function of the Board of Supervisors it is, however, the duty of each unit of local government, with the aid of their local planning board to come forth with the name of some individual to serve an the County Planning Board.

In as much as the Village Board decided to ignore the Planning Board's recommendation that its chairman, Dr. Richard Messina be appointed, and failed to consider any member of the board for the position, it is apparent that recommendations aren't needed by the Board."

Mrs. Gavigan stressed the fact that taxpayers' money was used to send Dr. Messina and Mr. Aaron to the Planning School at Saratoga.

The six members submitted a general letter of resignation in addition to the individual announcements.

Patrols to Be at Posts

Starting with the first day of school 500 members of the AAA-sponsored School Safety Patrols in Ulster County will go on duty to assist police and school crossing guards.

The AAA campaign was started in 1946. Since then, traffic fatalities among children of elementary school age have dropped 24 per cent in New York State during September and October. In the same period there has been an increase of 93 per cent in motor vehicle registrations and a steady growth in school population.

Clambake at Lodge

Colonial City Lodge, No. 733, Independent and Benevolent Order of Elks will hold a clambake at the lodge, 42 Cedar Street on Sunday. Breakfast will begin at 11 a. m. to be followed by the bake in the afternoon.

Foxhall Work Due

Foxhall Avenue between Flatbush and Albany Avenue is due to be closed to traffic starting Sept. 3 for repair by the public works department, it was announced today.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Teenager's Saving Best In Strong Growth Issue

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I am 14 years old and have $200 to invest. I own 5 shares of New England Electric System and 15 Giant Portland Cement. Would you advise me to sell my cement shares? If so, what do you think of Harshaw Chemical as a replacement?"

B.N.

A) If you will allow me to say so, you are pretty farsighted for a person of your age.

If I were in your postion and probably looking forward to a college education, I would not hold Giant Portland Cement. Giant is a fine company in a field that is characterized by over-capacity and intense competition. I believe growth here is some distance away, and I think growth is what you should have.

I do not consider that your position would be improved by switching to Harshaw Chemical, which is an income stock.

I would prefer to see you own fewer shares of a stronger growth issue, such as Beatrice Foods, our third largest dairy company.

Q) "I am a daily reader of your column. I would like the name of some tax-exempts that you consider safe and that afford a good yield. I would also like a list of government bonds that can be turned in at par in payment of inheritance taxes."

W.D.

A) Earlier this week, I gave the names of certain Public Authority tax-exempt bonds that I considered safe and satisfactory for investment. I will not repeat them, with your permission, since you have probably read that column.

There are 20 Treasury issues that are acceptable at par in payment of Federal estate taxes when actually owned by the decedent at the time of his death.

Anyone buying this type of issue now is usually attempting to save his estate inheritance taxes. Since that is the case, he should buy the bonds selling at the lowest discount from par. These are Treasury 3's of 1995, offered at about 88.

City of Hudson Moves to Curtail Air Pollution

Petitions are being circulated in the City of Hudson seeking action by the Columbia County Board of Supervisors to work for measures that will curtail excessive air pollution caused by cement dust.

Circulators of the petitions have called upon residents of nearby communities to sign the petitions, which will be submitted to the Board of Supervisors by Supervisor John Rogers of Hudson's Third Ward.

Environmental Health Director of Columbia County Richard O. Schindler said Carl Stefanik of the State Air Pollution Bureau will conduct tests in the Hudson area and is expected to visit area installations including the cement plants.

It was reported that Mayor Samuel T. Wheeler said earlier this week that he is aware of the situation and considers the air pollution problem "one of great concern."

L. R. Pritchard, vice president of the Lone Star Cement Corp. operations, said precipitators used to control dust at the Greenport plant are working efficiently. He contended that not only the Lone Star, but the entire industry feels that the cement dust question is one of major concern.

The Lone Star executive said that cooling temperatures in the last few weeks may have an adverse effect by holding the dust near the ground.

2 Women Found Slashed to Death In N.Y. Apartment

NEW YORK (AP)—Two attractive young women were found slashed to death in their Manhattan apartment Wednesday night. The bodies were bound hand and foot.

Three blood - stained kitchen knives were found in the $250-a-month apartment on East 88th Street, a fashionable neighborhood. Police said the knives belonged in the apartment.

Fierce Fight Indicated

The apartment had been ransacked. The bedroom where the bodies were found was "almost torn apart," a detective said, indicating the young women put up a fierce fight.

Killed were:

Janice Wylie, 21, blonde editorial employe of Newsweek magazine, daughter of Max Wylie, writer, radio-television producer and director, and a niece of author Philip Wylie.

Emily Hoffert, 23, brunette daughter of Dr. Henry Hoffert, Minneapolis surgeon. She had left home less than a month ago to begin a teaching career next month at Valley Stream, Long Island.

The victims shared the four-room furnished apartment with brunette Patricia Tolles, 23, an editorial employe of Time magazine and daughter of Winton Tolles, dean of Hamilton College at Clinton.

Tells of Phone Threats

A business associate of Miss Wylie's father said she had told employes at Newsweek about "'threatening calls from a lunatic who used obscene language."

Miss Tolles said her roommates were getting dressed when she left at 9 a.m. Wednesday for work. Miss Wylie was nude when found dead. Miss Hoffert wore a skirt, blouse, shoes and stockings.

Miss Tolles found the apartment in disorder when she returned home about 6:30 p.m. She telephoned Miss Wylie's father, who lives nearby. Wylie rushed to the apartment and found the bodies.

Chief Medical Examiner Milton Halpern said that so far as he could determine—pending autopsies—neither victim had been sexually molested.

Strips of bedsheets had been used to bind the two young women. Their hands were tied together, and to each other. Each one's feet were bound. The bodies were bound together with the ripped sheets.

There was no sign of forced entry to the apartment, which is on the third floor of a nine-story building. The building has a doorman—a security much favored by young businesss women.

Miss Tolles said nothing of value seemed to have been stolen. Investigators theorized that the killer—or killers — might have ransacked the place to make it look like a burglary and cover up another motive.

Miss Tolles' parents and her brother, Theodore, rushed here from their home in Upstate Clinton. The father phoned Miss Hoffert's parents in Minneapolis and broke the news.

Mrs. Pamela Sullivan, sister of Miss Wylie, said the young woman was a graduate of the Neighborhood Playhouse School of the Theater here and was studying to be an actress.

Miss Tolles and Miss Hoffert were roommates at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., from whicih they graduated in 1962. Miss Wylie's father and Miss Tolles' father were friends as undergraduates at Hamilton College.
